Thursday for

Former Hancock Chamber director released on $10,000 bond

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

A Hancock County Grand Jury on Thursday indicted former Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Carleen Murphy Moran on seven counts of embezzlement.

According to the indictment, grand jurors determined there was enough evidence to try Moran on seven separate counts for events from May 2000 to December 2001 in which she allegedly "did willfully, unlawfully and feloniously embezzle and fraudulently secrete, conceal and convert to her own use" funds which "had been entrusted to (her) care and possession ... by virtue of her employment" as chamber director.

The indictment does not reveal the amount of funds Moran, 46, is accused of embezzling. Each count merely says "more than $250," the minimum amount necessary for a crime to qualify as a felony

Southern Regional board eyes new bayou plant, discharge site

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Now that officials at Southern Regional Wastewater Management District have decided to go forward with plans for a satellite treatment plant in West Hancock County they must find a place to locate the plant. Possible locations include a site near White's Bayou.

Acting Director of the Gulf of Mexico Program Bryon Griffith suggested that the district look into the possibility of using land that is part of a NASA mitigation site as a point for overland flow. At least 20 to 30 acres would be needed for the permanent plant location so that the district could go forward with plans for overland

Big plans at Stennis Airport

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Stennis International Airport will be a whirlwind of activity this spring, with the opening of several new businesses and a weekend of fun too.

Forty to fifty new jobs will be coming to the county when Memphis International, Inc. opens its doors at Stennis International Airport this spring. A ribbon cutting will be held for the company on April 24 at 11 a.m. at the airport.

The company will run a maintenance and overhaul operation for C-130's, including outfitting the planes with state of the art avionics. It will be a while before the planes will be arriving at the new Stennis location though.

The company is leasing a hanger and offices that previously belonged to Smith and Smith, a surplus aircraft parts company. The hanger is not big enough to allow service of the large planes so the Port and Harbor Commission is planning extensive renovations of the hanger to accommodate the planes. Memphis will be conducting other aspects of the business in the mean time.

Port and Harbor Director Hal Walters said job applications were available through the employment office on Longfellow Rd.

Optech International will also be locating at the airport. Optech is a subsidiary of Optech, Inc. of Toronto, Canada and is the world's leading manufacturer of airborne laser mapping technology. When up and running, Optech and its subcontractors are expected to bring 45 to 70 new jobs to the airport.

The company will locate in a new technology building that will be built near the water tower at the airport. Commissioners hope to attract similar companies to fill the remainder of the building.

The structure will be built with a State-sponsored loan secured by the Board of Supervisors. It will be repaid from revenue derived from the company, the Commission said.

A branch of Optech is currently open at Stennis Space Center, but the company needed a location to expand its services and a location with access to an airport, said Walters, while providing close access to long-standing government customers and academic collaborators.

"The location at the airport is the latest result of our efforts to develop aviation and aerospace jobs for the citizens of our county," said Walters.

The new fixed-base operator (FBO), Mardi Gras Air, will begin operations at the airport on May 1 in the large blue hanger adjacent to the terminal building.

Future plans call for the establishment of light/medium mechanical and avionics services and a flight school.

Rental aircraft will be available.

The Eighteenth Annual Old Timers Memorial Fly-In will be held on May 18 at the airport at Phillips Aviation, Inc. A crawfish boil and barbecue will begin at Noon. Phillips will also host an FAA Wings Program and safety meetings throughout the entire weekend of May 16 through May 18. For more information call 467-3466.

Walkable Community workshops to be held on the Gulf Coast

Eight communities in the Gulf Coast area will bring local leaders together to define ways to make their communities more pedestrian and bicycle friendly. The Gulf Regional Planning Commission (GRPC) and local municipalities will hold Walkable Community Workshops during the week of April 14-18, 2003. The workshops, co-sponsored by the National Center for Bicycling and Walking, are half-day courses for elected officials, business people, and citizens, and for professionals in the fields of planning, engineering, law enforcement, and education. "Walking for pleasure or purpose is essential to everyone. The challenge to the community is how to provide a balance of mode options with greater emphasis on pedestrian traffic," said Elaine Wilkinson, Executive Director of GRPC. "GRPC is excited by this opportunity to learn techniques for incorporating walkable design strategies into the development of our Gulf Coast communities. Our region is known for its scenic and historic landscape and we want more people to be able to enjoy it by walking," Wilkinson continued. The workshops will include a dynamic, informative presentation from national experts and a visit to a specific site within each community to view pedestrian facilities and see how they serve walkers' needs. Topics to be addressed include successful pedestrian-scale design, issues of pedestrian and bicycle safety and enforcement, and strategies to encourage walking and biking within the community landscape. The workshop presenters will be Peter Lagerwey, Bicycle and Pedestrian Program Coordinator with the City of Seattle and Deb Spicer, Facilitator with Walkable Communities, Inc. GRPC is a regional transportation and planning organization serving

Harrison, Hancock, and Jackson counties in South Mississippi, selected as one of nine organizations to hold Walkable Community workshops from a national pool of applicants. The workshops are supported by The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, with additional support through the Alternative Transportation Program and the Mississippi Department of Transportation. The schedule for the workshops is as follows:

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Do not forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's April Business After Hours set for Thursday, 5 to 7 p.m. at the Court Street Station, Beach Boulevard at Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

The After Hours are sponsored by Bon Temps Roule', Inc. and Court Street Station.

This After Hours goes Hawaiian in its theme and hopefully it will be warm enough for me to select one of my special shirts.

In recent weeks, one day is Hawaiian shirt weather and the next day could be Alaskan overcoat.

Anyway, this After Hours sounds like one that should really be right down my alley, as an old saying goes.

Refreshments and snacks, I have been told will be great and I hope to see you Thursday at the After Hours.

I also know a couple guys (sometime impersonators), who will probably wake the moths and shake the mothballs from their Hawaiian shirt for the occasion.

In recent conversations I have been hearing a lot about folks getting ready for fishing.

This is the time of year usually when speckled trout begin showing up and sports fishermen start getting after them.

This too means boating activities on our rivers, bay and sound will be on the increase.

Just as there are rules on roadways for driving, there are also rules on waterways for water traffic.

There is a feeling some of the folks who are new to boating and even many with years of experience, do not know all of the rules of waterways.

To combat this situation, the Department of Marine Resources (DMR) is sponsoring free boating classes.

DMR began its Boat and Water Safety Program back in 2000, they have taught 318 certification courses and certified a total of 3,397 students in the three coast counties.

Topics covered include registration, safety equipment, negligent operation, who has the right of way, boating accidents, no wake zones, weather and navigational aides.

These are very important things for boat operators to know.

Other items which should be known include, in order to operate a motor boat or personal watercraft in Mississippi, those born after June 30, 1980, are required to successfully complete an approved boating safety course and to have a certificate of satisfactory completion in their possession while in operation of the motorboat.

Something else a few forget is that anyone riding or operating a personal watercraft in Mississippi waters must wear a U.S. Coast Guard approved type 1, 2, or 3 Personal Flotation Device.

There is a six-hour total for the courses and DMR schedules the classes on Saturdays and weekday nights in order to make them convenient.

The classes in Hancock County are held at Mississippi Power's Auditorium, Highway 90 at Dunbar Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

The schedule April through June are, April 26, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; May 7 and 8, 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.; May 24, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; June 21, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and June 25 and 26, 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

To register for a free boating safety class, call Lt. Frank Wescovich, director, DMR Boat and Water Safety Bureau at 228-435-1332 or 228-432-2880.

Credibility Matters

Credibility matters, and some people and even some nations have more credibility than others.

Operation Iraqi Freedom shows that some nations and people are willing to do what they say: fight terrorists, defend freedom and eliminate threats to democracy, while others are not quite so willing.

America and her coalition allies' credibility matters greatly as a free, democratic Iraq takes shape.

Our military plan in Iraq is obviously working, lending credibility to our military and its leaders. Our forces are moving about Baghdad. Our troops are being welcomed by the Iraqi people. There have not been massive civilian or coalition casualties. We are discovering what appears to be evidence of Iraq's weapons of mass destruction program. Coalition forces prevented mass oil fires in Iraq. Saddam was prevented from attacking Israel, and his ties to terrorism have been confirmed. We are even getting new information about how Saddam intentionally fooled the UN for 12 years.

Mind you, these are all things that the French, the Russians, the Germans, the UN, anti-war demonstrators, the liberal press and even a small few in the U.S. Congress said would not happen - but they are happening, underscoring America's credibility. Yet, it means more than just some folks were wrong and some folks were right. More importantly, credibility should determine who plays a role in the new democratic Iraq. America, Britain, Spain and our new friends in Eastern Europe were among the right, among those gaining credibility because we knew Saddam indeed was a dictator, murderer, torturer and terrorist who had to go.

FROM THE SENATE

By U.S. Senator

Therefore the new Iraq should be not only free of Saddam, but also free of those people and nations who hurt their credibility by enabling and encouraging Saddam's regime.

The U.S. has the longstanding credibility to create a free, democratic Iraq. We did it in Japan and Europe after World War II. We did it in Kosovo, and we

Agriculture Assistance Act sign-up begins

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Pearl River and Hancock county farmers who want to sign up for federal disaster benefits under the Livestock Compensation Program II (LCP) can do so now. Sign-up for the expanded Livestock Compensation Program began April 1, 2003. Ending date for the sign-up will be announced later.

The Agricultural Assistance Act expands the Livestock Compensation Program by including additional counties that were approved under a Secretarial disaster designation or Presidential disaster declaration for damages and losses due to any natural disaster. Previously under LCP, a county must have been named as a primary county under a Secretarial disaster designation between Jan. 1, 2001, and Sept. 19, 2002, only for drought. The Act expands LCP to make eligible any counties that were requested as primary disaster areas under a Presidential or Secretarial declaration by Feb. 20, 2003, and that were subsequently approved. To be eligible for LCP assistance, a producer's livestock operation headquarters must be physically located in a county with a qualifying disaster designation. Eligible livestock are cattle, sheep, goats, and buffalo, as well as catfish. Counties named as contiguous counties are not eligible for the program. LCP payments will be based on losses per head or number of eligible livestock and catfish. To sign up for LCP assistance, eligible producers should visit the Pearl River - Hancock FSA offices starting. The Agriculture Assistance Act, signed into law on Feb. 20, 2003, authorizes total disaster aid estimated at $3.1 billion for producers suffering from natural disasters and related conditions. USDA will announce sign-up soon for other assistance provided by the Act, including the crop disaster program that reimburses producers for qualifying crop losses in either 2001 or 2002 due to damaging weather or related conditions, $250 million for the Livestock Assistance Program to reimburse producers for grazing losses.

Mary Gwathney County Executive Director of the Pearl River - Hancock Farm Service Agency, USDA, encourages all eligible farmers to sign up for disaster assistance as quickly as possible. "We had a rough year in 2002," said Gwathney, "and I hope our producers take advantage of these assistance programs to help recover some of their losses." Gwathney also encourages producers to log on to USDA Web sites at are doing it in Afghanistan today. The UN's credibility in this regard is almost nonexistent. Would the Iraqi people be on the brink of freedom today if Hans Blix were still "inspecting?" Of course not, and as a new Iraq is created the coalition and the Iraqi people should be the architects. The French and German governments especially - along with French and German companies - should stand aside. Instead of becoming a part of the solution, they became part of the problem. Their credibility has been diminished by their choice. They chose not to help liberate Iraq. They stood by their long history of supporting Saddam by selling him lots of weapons and even building him bunkers. They denied the threat posed by Saddam and sought appeasement. Therefore, French, German and Russian interests should have no part in building the new Iraq. America, Britain, Australia, Spain and all nations contributing to and supporting operation Iraqi Freedom should help Iraq's capable people build a better nation - an Iraq that will be democratic, and especially a good friend to those who helped liberate it.

As President Bush said, America will stay in Iraq no longer than it takes for a new democratic Iraqi government to emerge and begin functioning, but we will stay as long as necessary to ensure security and establish general order. During this time the UN's role should be relegated to handling a portion of the humanitarian relief effort in Iraq. Distribution of foodstuffs and medical supplies seems to be one area where the UN actually excels. After more than a decade of failing to enforce its own disarmament resolutions regarding Saddam Hussein's Iraq, the UN's credibility in peacekeeping is severely hurt. The UN should not, and most likely could not, administer a new Iraq.

Our military men and women have proved their credibility as the best disarmament plan for Saddam's Iraq, accomplishing amazing military feats that will be long remembered in the annals of history - especially in the new free Iraq soon to materialize. The decisive action by America, Britain and other nations to eliminate Saddam's reign of terror and deny him weapons of mass destruction was the right one. The result: America and her coalition allies gain more credibility and respect while Saddam's apologists and the "blame-America-first" crowd lose some. Folks throughout the world - good guys and bad guys alike - are noting which nations are credible, which nations are willing to back up words with action, to fight terrorists, to fight for freedom and to deliver on their promises. Yes, credibility matters, and right now America and the coalition of the willing have much more credibility than the nay sayers who propped up a tyrannical, and now terminal Iraqi dictatorship. 4/10/03

Q May a governing authority make purchases using a credit card or small purchase procurement card?

A Yes, subject to the authority of the Director of the Office of Purchasing and Travel at the Department of Finance and Administration. Balances on credit cards shall be paid upon the receipt of the monthly statement, once the statement has been reconciled for accuracy. Balances on credit cards shall not be carried over to the next month except on disputed claims and only for the disputed amount. Any amounts due on credit cards shall incur interest charges as set forth in Section 31-7-305, which only allows for an interest rate of 1 1/2 percent to be applied to any unpaid balance not paid within 45 days. (DFA Procurement Manual, page 10-28)

Q May a governing authority obtain and use a membership club card for purchasing?

A Yes. Membership club card fees (such as Sam's club) are allowed but should be justified to show that the anticipated savings from using the card would exceed the cost of the card fee. This justification should be maintained on file with the government entity.

Each subsequent year, the government entity shall document enough actual savings for the previous year which substantiate the cost of the card. (DFA Procurement Manual, page 10-30)

Top United Kingdom scientist visits Southern Miss. Center for Higher Learning at Stennis Space Center

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Lord Julian Hunt, a prominent climate physics scientist from the United Kingdom, recently presented a seminar at the University of Southern Mississippi's Center of Higher Learning at the John C. Stennis Space Center. In addition to speaking about natural disaster forecasting, Lord Hunt discussed possible collaborative research efforts with scientists at Stennis Space Center. The visit, held March 28, also included a reception held in Lord Hunt's honor.

A former director of the United Kingdom Meteorological Office, Lord Hunt has also served as chairman of the Scientific Program Committee for the European Research Community for Flow, Turbulence and Combustion and as president of the Institute of Mathematics and its Applications. In recognition of his outstanding scientific and political contributions, Lord Hunt was made a baron in 2000 by Queen Elizabeth II.

During his seminar, Lord Hunt explained how science has contributed toward mitigating the devastating effects of natural disasters, such as the dynamics of hurricanes and volcanic eruptions. He further reviewed ways in which research and knowledge have been applied more effectively to improve forecasts and warnings of hurricanes, storms, heat waves, floods and volcanic hazards.

Lord Hunt emphasized that there is a continued reluctance internationally to utilize information that is freely available. He also added that there are some scientists who communicate their predictions both informally and prematurely.

One of the successful examples he highlighted in his presentation was the 30 percent reduction over the decade in the errors for predicting the location of tropical cyclones up to five days in advance. Lord Hunt pointed out that in many countries, the insurance industry is now supporting research into natural disasters. Scientists, he said, should pay greater attention to research on phenomenon relating to natural disasters.

During the afternoon, Lord Hunt participated in a discussion about potential collaborative research projects with the Center of Higher Learning (Dr. Shahr Sajjadi), the Naval Research Laboratory (Dr. Todd Holland) and Arizona State University (Dr. Jose Fernando). Later that evening, a reception in Lord Hunt's honor was held at the residence of Dr. Peter Ranelli, director of the Center of Higher Learning. Guests included Dr. Tim Hudson, USM Gulf Coast provost, Dr. Robert Lochhead, dean of USM's College of Science and Technology, and Rear Admiral Thomas Donaldson of the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command.

District Attorney General Caranna brought in Auditor's Office Attorney General to assist in the litigation.

The audit was generally positive, but also brought to light some environmental issues.

In a letter to the members dated March 2003, Caranna outlined the office's receipt of a letter from the attorney's office dated March 2003. The letter stated that the jury which offense.

"At the end of December 2001," current chamber President John Baxter said Friday, "some of the chamber board members noticed some discrepancies in the finances of the chamber, and it was on that date the (district attorney's) office was notified and that date they took over the investigation."

District Attorney Cono Caranna immediately brought in the State Auditor's Office and State Attorney General's Office to assist in the criminal investigation.

The auditor's and attorney general's offices apparently also brought in investigators from the Environmental Protection Agency.

In a letter to chamber members dated April 10, 2003, Caranna said "my office received the investigative file from the auditor's office on March 27, 2003. The case was docketed for the next available grand jury which met on April 3, 2003, and an indictment was returned today."

The chamber officially accepted Moran's resignation in early January 2002, shortly after then-newly-elected chamber President Jody Compretta took over the post from the outgoing president, Charley "Dusty" Rhodes. Although Moran was unavailable for comment before a Jan. 10, 2002 Sea Coast Echo article made her resignation and the allegations public, she later made extensive statements to Echo Publisher Randy Ponder in e-mailed communications.

In a mass e-mail sent to Ponder and several chamber members and other local officials last year on Jan. 10, 2002 -- the day the article was published -- Moran said "Please know that there is always more to the story than ever meets the paper's eyes, as controversy sells papers. I had resigned on Nov. 17, long prior to any of this even coming up, and the chamber is full of politics, just as everything else. I initially told everyone on the chamber board that I felt that it would be best if someone else took over this job with all the emotional changes going on in my life over the last year.

"I don't worry about me, but I worry about (my children), as it is never fair to publish something until it is proven true. Everyone has a right to a fair hearing. Just know that whatever the issues are, I have always made things right in my life and I will continue to do so at all costs."

She closed the message asking everyone who received it to "pray for us."

In an e-mail to Ponder and Echo News Editor Geoff Belcher on Jan. 11, Moran said "Just so you know, some people don't think a whole lot about sensationalism, but I do understand you guys have to sell papers somehow. It made me feel good to get 80 some odd e-mails yesterday from folks like Gerald Gex, supervisors, etc., saying how awful and unsubstantiated this article was, but as I said, this too shall pass. Isn't it all a coincidence that one month prior I gave them my resignation citing no board support, they refused to take it, citing me doing an excellent job, and then the day we get a new board president, all this happens."

Moran became the chamber's executive director in April 2000, stepping down as a Bay St. Louis City Council member and loan officer at Union Planters Bank to take the position.

She turned herself in to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department Friday afternoon and was released on a $10,000 bond.

Neither Moran nor her attorney, Donald Rafferty, were available for comment before press time Saturday.

No court date has yet been scheduled. If convicted, Moran could face a $1,000 fine and up to 10 years in prison on each count.

flow or spray irrigation discharge of treated wastewater.

Several million gallons of treated wastewater from the Waveland plant is discharged into Edward's Bayou each day. Plans for the two new satellite plants to be located in the west and north county, included a land discharge of wastewater as the least expensive option.

District Engineer Duke Levy advised the board last week to consider a new effluent line for the Waveland plant, to carry treated wastewater to a spray irrigation field and get it out of the bayou. Board members agreed that the plant needs to move to this type of discharge to get wastewater out of local waterways.

In other business: • Levy told the board he was concerned that the plant had not used the new centrifuge sludge de-watering system put in during the last $11 million upgrade. Levy said the warranty period on the equipment is about to expire without proper testing of the equipment. He said he was concerned that the approximately $1 million worth of equipment would never be used. The equipment was installed to be a part of a composting system at the plant, but the board has taken no action to go forward with composting sludge produced as a result of wastewater treatment.

• Director of Hancock Water and Sewer District Eddie Renz told the board that he continues to be concerned over Southern Regional's billing practices. Renz said Hancock Water and Sewer overpaid the district about $102,000 last year as a result of improper billing. Renz further estimated that his district had overpaid Southern Regional about $42,000 so far this year.

"We want to be billed according to actual use," Renz said. "We can't afford to continue overpaying."

• Renz asked again about a treatment agreement with the plant so that his district can go forward with a project to provide sewer treatment to about 1000 waiting customers.

Board member Mayor Eddie Farve told Renz that it was likely that the project would have to wait for new digesters to be installed at the plant.

Yellow Ribbons

Students in Ms. Kelley Williams kindergarten class learn about the servicemen and women displayed on the Yellow Ribbon Tree before returning to their classroom and writing letters to the soldiers.

EHE kids support the troops

THE SEA COAST ECHO

A Yellow Ribbon Tree now stands tall in the entrance at East Hancock Elementary School to commemorate some of our local Americans who have been called to duty. Ms. Kelley Williams, a kindergarten teacher at the school, created the Yellow Ribbon Tree using patriotic paper printed with the names and branch of service for military members related to EHE students and faculty. Many of the acknowledgments also include photos of the honored servicemen. Next to the tree hangs a letter and a photograph from President George W. Bush thanking the kindergarten students for their letters to him about the presidency and the White House. He suggested web sites where the students can learn more about our country and asked for their continued support. Teachers visit the tree with their classes to generate discussions about the servicemen and then encourage the students to write letters to the soldiers in appreciation for their sacrifice for our country. The letters will be included in several boxes of care packages being shipped to Iraq this week.

Mississippi recognized for fifth highest childhood immunization rate in the nation

THE SEA COAST

A recent national health award highlights Mississippi's success in achieving unprecedented goals in childhood immunization. Mississippi earned national recognition for attaining the fifth highest coverage in the childhood basic immunization series last month at the 37th annual National Immunization Conference held in Chicago, Illinois. The coverage reflects that 79.6 percent of Mississippi's Children aged 19-35 months are immunized appropriately in their age group. This exceeds the national average by almost 6.5 percent.

"Immunizations are one of the most important ways parents can protect their children against serious diseases," said State Health Officer Brian W. Amy, M.D.,

M.H.A., M.P.H. "Infants and young children are particularly vulnerable to infectious diseases; that is why it is critical that they are protected through immunizations."

Joy Sennett, director of Communicable Diseases for the Mississippi State Department of Health, attended the conference and accepted the award on Mississippi's behalf. Walter A. Orenstein, M.D., director of the National Immunization Program for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, presented the award.

"With the strength of our public and private partnerships, we must vigorously continue our efforts to take proper care of our children," Sennett said. "Vaccines have been proven to be safe and effective and to provide the best protection against infectious diseases; we must continue our mission to ensure that all Mississippi's children are immunized."

The state's national ranking was determined by the National Immunization Survey which measured immunization rates from July 2001 through June 2002. The national telephone survey, conducted twice a year, included a random sample of Mississippi's parents with children thirty five months and under.

Mississippi and North Carolina were the only southern states recognized in this immunization category.

Mississippi shared the honor of fifth place in the nation with the state of New Hampshire.

For more information regarding Mississippi's immunization program, visit www.ms.dh.state.ms.us. Parents and providers may access children's immunization records by calling the Department's Immunization Registry at 1-800-634-9251.

State officials praise partnership for Pascagoula shipyard expansion

Mississippi Gov. Ronnie Musgrove Thursday signed legislation authorizing proceeds from the sale of $48 million in bonds for Northrop Grumman Corporation's (NYSE: NOC) Ship Systems sector to expand and modernize the company's Ingalls Operations in Pascagoula, Miss.

As part of the partnership with the state, Northrop Grumman is allocating $96 million in capital funds to the project at Ingalls Operations and also its Gulfport Operations in Gulfport, Miss.

The ceremony for the bill signing was held aboard Pinckney (DDG 91), one of the Aegis guided missile destroyers being built at Pascagoula.

"The image of Mississippi in 2003 is unlike anything anyone could have imagined," Gov. Musgrove said. "It's an image of companies like Northrop Grumman doing business in the state with Mississippians building state-of-the-art ships for our nation's military. I'm proud of what we've done to get to this point.

"We thought today would be a great presentation to the men and women who work right here at Northrop Grumman that you are important, and what you do is not only important economically to our state, but is absolutely vital to the well-being and safety of our nation."

Expansion and modernization efforts planned for Ingalls Operations include the addition of new blasting and painting halls; increased ship construction area of over 400,000 square feet to support the DD(X) and U.S. Coast Guard Deepwater programs; a state-of-the-art, automated steel processing panel line for improved quality and accuracy; and additional technology design and procurement development space.

Gulfport Operations is scheduled for a three-year conversion into the United States' first primary composite combatant ship manufacturing facility. Other improvements include environmentally controlled enclosed buildings that will add 50 percent more work space, a new outfitting pier and outfitting building for ship completion, and the addition of a two-story administration building to house professional and production support personnel, as well as a cafeteria for all employees.

Mississippi Representative and Northrop Grumman Ship Systems Senior Production Planner Billy Broomfield described the determination of the legislature to pass the bill, saying, "We put our shoulders together because we understood that it's not just about shipbuilding, it's about top quality shipbuilding. If you did not produce the kind of quality that you produce, we would not be here today."

The Pascagoula facility was originally founded 65 years ago under the state's "Balance Agriculture with Industry" program. A major new facility construction in 1967 was accomplished with $130 million in state revenue bonds. Since 1970 the company has invested an additional $900 million.

Northrop Grumman's Ship Systems Sector includes primary operations in Pascagoula and Gulfport, Miss.; and in New Orleans and Tallulah, La., as well as in a network of fleet support offices in the U.S. and Japan. Ship Systems, which currently employs more than 17,000 shipbuilding professionals, primarily in Mississippi and Louisiana, is one of the nation's leading full service systems companies for the design, engineering, construction, and life cycle support of major surface ships for the U.S. Navy, U.S. Coast Guard and international navies, and for commercial vessels of all types.

What makes a community play ball?

BY GUS MCKAY
Director of Bay St. Louis
Parks & Recreation, and David Treutel Jr.,
President of Treutel
Insurance Agency Inc.

What makes our community strong, and what might make it stronger?

It's an important question, because strong communities don't just happen. A community's quality of life is a combination of many factors. So when you read that a city or town is among the most livable, that's because raters have tallied up all the little things that add up to a high quality of life.

One factor is having safe public places where residents can comfortably gather and enjoy socializing and playing together. Places like parks and sports fields.

Perhaps the most revealing factor in assessing a town's quality score is the quality of life it provides for its children. Children represent a city's future, so cities that invest in children are cities that are going somewhere.

Bay Saint Louis is just such a place. And our sports fields are a vivid example of this investment. Last year, Bay Saint Louis sports fields hosted hundreds of youth sports games involving an estimated 6000 kids. That's more than 1200 hours of entertainment, exercise, self-esteem building, and fundamental community building.

Friendships - and communities - are forged in the bleachers of these games. Parents talk with other parents. Neighbors meet previously unknown neighbors. Customers get to know their area's business owners. Citizens connect with their elected officials.

These are the fibers that knit together our community. A single strand is nearly imperceptible and easily overlooked, but when combined together they add up to a strong community.

That's why we are so excited to celebrate the addition of a great new feature to the Bay Saint Louis Athletic Complex. A beautiful new electronic scoreboard to be installed in April will tell kids who play there - not to mention adult league players -- that they are just a little more important than they might have thought they were.

The scoreboard will enhance the overall quality of the experience for players and fans alike. It will lend excitement to the game and provide years of pleasure to thousands of residents. It scores one more point for the quality of life in Bay Saint Louis.

Bay Saint Louis has long been a strong community. This month it just got a little stronger.

Gus McKay is Director of the Bay Saint Louis Parks & Recreation Department and David Treutel Jr., Treutel Insurance Agency Inc., which along with Safeco Corporation, donated the new Bay Saint Louis Athletic Complex scoreboard as part of their "PlayBall" initiative for building stronger communities through youth baseball.

OLA downs Bay in softball, 10-6

Our Lady Academy defeated cross-town rival Bay High 10-6 in high school softball Wednesday. Rachel Wright was the winning pitcher for OLA. Katherine Milner was 3 for 4 and three RBIs, Ashley Mayley connected for a single and a double and drove in two runs, Jordan Fisher had two hits and scored three runs, and Julie Reboul had one hit and scored three times for the Crescents. Brittany Johnson led Bay

High with two singles and a double and Kendra Reed blasted a two run home run. OLA finished the regular season with a 13-3 record and hosted a doubleheader yesterday in the first round of the playoffs.

Menhaden season begins this month

(AP) — Menhaden season opens April 21 and fishermen are expecting another good season, although projections say it could be just below last year's big catch.

"We go again for about 300 million fish," said general manager Rick Schillaci of Omega Protein Moss Point Operations. "That equates to about 70,000 tons of fish at our Moss Point processing plant."

The Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission and the federal National Marine Fisheries Services put together data for fishing off Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

The Gulf of Mexico menhaden fishery is one of the largest fisheries in the U.S., bringing in more than 600,000 tons of menhaden valued at about $115 million in a typical year. Omega's Gulf Coast facilities are at Moss Point and Cameron and Abbeville, La.

Omega Protein maintains and refurbishes 29 pogy boats from the Gulf and Atlantic operations. Seven fishing boats and seven single-engine spotter planes operate out of Moss Point.

Spotter pilots locate large schools of menhaden, typically up to 24 tons, and use extensive electronic navigation and communication systems to work with steamer crews below. Two 40-foot purse boats, launched from a mother ship, are used to set nets 1,800 feet long and 60 feet deep to bag the schools of pogy.

The fish are pumped into a refrigerated hold on the 165-foot main steamer.

Omega produces fish meal, a nutritionally important component of certain animal diets.

Regulations protect menhaden by limiting fishing days and preventing commercial fishermen from catching them during the winter spawning season.

Menhaden make up about 40 percent of all the fish caught in the U.S.

While the numbers of menhaden on the East Coast could be shrinking due to environmental problems or excessive fishing pressure, stocks in the Gulf remain high.

Number 1 ranked PRCC Wildcats split with Delta

THE SEA COAST ECHO

MOORHEAD Pearl River Community College's No. 1-ranked Wildcats lost their fifth game of the season via a bottom-of-the-seventh Mississippi Delta rally here Thursday, but bounced back with a 10-2 blow out to split with the Trojans in MACJC non-division doubleheader baseball action.

PRCC's 8-7 loss to Mississippi Delta came just a day after the Wildcats made history with their first-ever No. 1 ranking in the NJCAA's Division II baseball poll. The defending Region XXIII and Central District champions improved to 31-5 with the nightcap win. Thursday's twin bill was originally scheduled for March 4, but was postponed due to rain. Pearl River swept the Trojans 1-0, 3-1 on Feb. 19 in Poplarville.

Mississippi Delta dropped to 14-12 with the split.

Division rivals PRCC and Mississippi Gulf Coast, set to lock up for the second time this year Saturday at Perkinston with a 1 p.m. twin bill, are tied for the lead in the South Division race with identical 6-2 league marks. The Bulldogs swept the Wildcats 6-3, 3-1 on March 25 in Poplarville to open both team's division schedules.

In Thursday's first game, the Wildcats jumped out to a comfortable 4-0 lead in the top of the second, but the Trojans cut their lead to 4-1 with a solo run in the bottom of the third. Pearl River answered with a run in the top of the fourth to make it 5-1, but Delta bounced back in the bottom of the frame with three to make it a one-run Wildcat lead after four.

The Trojans tied it up in the bottom of the fifth and the deadlock remained intact until the top of the final frame when Rhyne Hughes of Picayune High bashed his fourth home run of the season a two-run shot to put the Wildcats up 7-5.

Mississippi Delta bounced back in the bottom of the seventh with a two-run double by John Morgan and a one-run base hit to hand the top-ranked Wildcats their fifth loss.

Brett Cerda was the winning pitcher after relieving starter Raymond Rivera with one out in the seventh. Thomas Royals (0-1) of Lumberton High was the loser after relieving in the seventh. Neal Cannon of Petal got the start and hurled four frames until Daniel Clark of Columbia High took over in the fifth.

Matt Riser of Picayune High paced Pearl River's eight-hit effort with a triple, a double, and a single; while Hughes homered and singled. Jeff Middleton of Mobile homered, and Lee Michael Norris and Brad Wood, both of Oak Grove, had singles.

In the nightcap, PRCC went up 1-0 in the top of the first, but MDCC tied it up in the bottom of the seventh. The Wildcats took a 2-1 edge in the top of the third, then bounded back with four in the top of the fifth off a two-out, two-run single by Norris and a two-run double by Armando Talavera of Gulfport High to make it 6-1.

Delta managed a solo run in the bottom of the frame, but Pearl River iced the cake in the top of the sixth with four more to end the scoring. Wood and Josh Abshier of Baton Rouge both cracked an two-run doubles in the spurt.

Pete Atwood (1-0) of Kosciusko was the winning pitcher after relieving starter Hughes in the third inning. Zach Butler of Gulfport High relieved in the sixth and Rhett Shaffette of Picayune High closed it out in the seventh.

Jason Giachelli was the losing pitcher after relieving starter Chilion Stapleton in the fourth. Lance Songy relieved in the sixth.

Again, PRCC finished with eight hits and Riser was again the big man at the plate with a double and two singles; while Norris had two singles, and Wood, Abshier, and Talavera had doubles.

Three more division twin bills remain in the regular season; starting with Southwest visiting Tuesday at 4 p.m. Jones plays host in Ellisville on April 18 (Good Friday) with a 1 p.m. doubleheader, then PRCC closes out the regular season when Copiah-Lincoln visits Wednesday, April 23, for a 4 p.m. doubleheader.

The MACJC State Tournament is set for May 1-4 at the home field of the South Division champion, while the Region XXIII Division II Tournament is set for May 8-11 at the North Division's regional champ's home field. The Region XXIII champ will host the Central District "Super Regionals" Tournament May 16-18, while the NJCAA Division II World Series is set for May 24-31 at USA Stadium in Millington, Tenn.

Wildcats ranked #1 in division

THE SEA COAST ECHO

POPLARVILLE Pearl River Community College's baseball program made history Wednesday when the Wildcats grabbed the No. 1 spot in the NJCAA Division II poll for the first time in school history.

The Wildcats, presently 30-4 and the defending Region XXIII and Central District "Super Regionals" champions, were ranked No. 8 in the NJCAA preseason poll. Last season, PRCC finished in the Juco Top 15 after copping their first-ever regional and district titles and thus a berth in the NJCAA Division II World Series.

"It goes to show you what hard work and determination can do for you," said second-year head coach Jay Artigues. "We've practiced hard and played hard to get where we are right now. This is really an honor for our team and our school."

PRCC is presently tied with arch-rival Mississippi Gulf Coast in the MACJC South Division derby with 6-2 records. The two squads square off this Saturday in Perkinston for their second twin bill of the season beginning at 1 p.m. in Curley Farris Stadium. The Bulldogs swept the Wildcats 6-3 and 3-1 on March 25 in Poplarville in both team's division openers.

"We've still got a long way to go before the post season gets here," said Artigues. "We've got four straight division double-headers to close out the regular season and hopefully we can take care of our business and win out. If we can do that, we'll be sitting pretty good when the post-season seedings roll around."

No. 2 in the poll is St. Louis-Forest Park (Mo.), which along with No. 12 Saint Catharine (Ky.), were in last season's "Super Regionals" tournament line up; while No. 7 Parkland (Ill.) and No. 14 Brookdale (N.J.) both earned World Series berths last year along with PRCC.

Southwest visits Tuesday for a 4 p.m. doubleheader, followed by a road trip to Jones in Ellisville on Friday, April 18 (1 p.m.) Copiah-

Lincoln visits at 4 p.m. Wednesday, April 23, to close out the regular season.

The 2003 MACJC State Tournament is set for May 1-4 at the home field of the South Division champion, while the Region XXIII Tournament will be held

May 8-11 at the North Division champ's home field. The Region XXIII winner will host the Central District "Super Regionals" Tournament May 16-18 with the World Series set for May 24-31 at USA Stadium in Millington, Tenn.

Keep cool about plants, fire ants

THE PACE FILES
BY STAN PACE
Extension Agent

I wanted to start this article off with a sincere and heart-felt goodbye. On April 3, I accepted a position with the Extension Service as the Agronomic Crops Area Agent for Southeast Mississippi. With this last column, I wanted to say thank you to the people of Hancock County for your support and friendship over the past 2-1/2 years as your County Agent. If you have any questions during the upcoming growing season please continue to call the Hancock Office or use the Master Gardener Hotline (865-4483) in Gulfport.

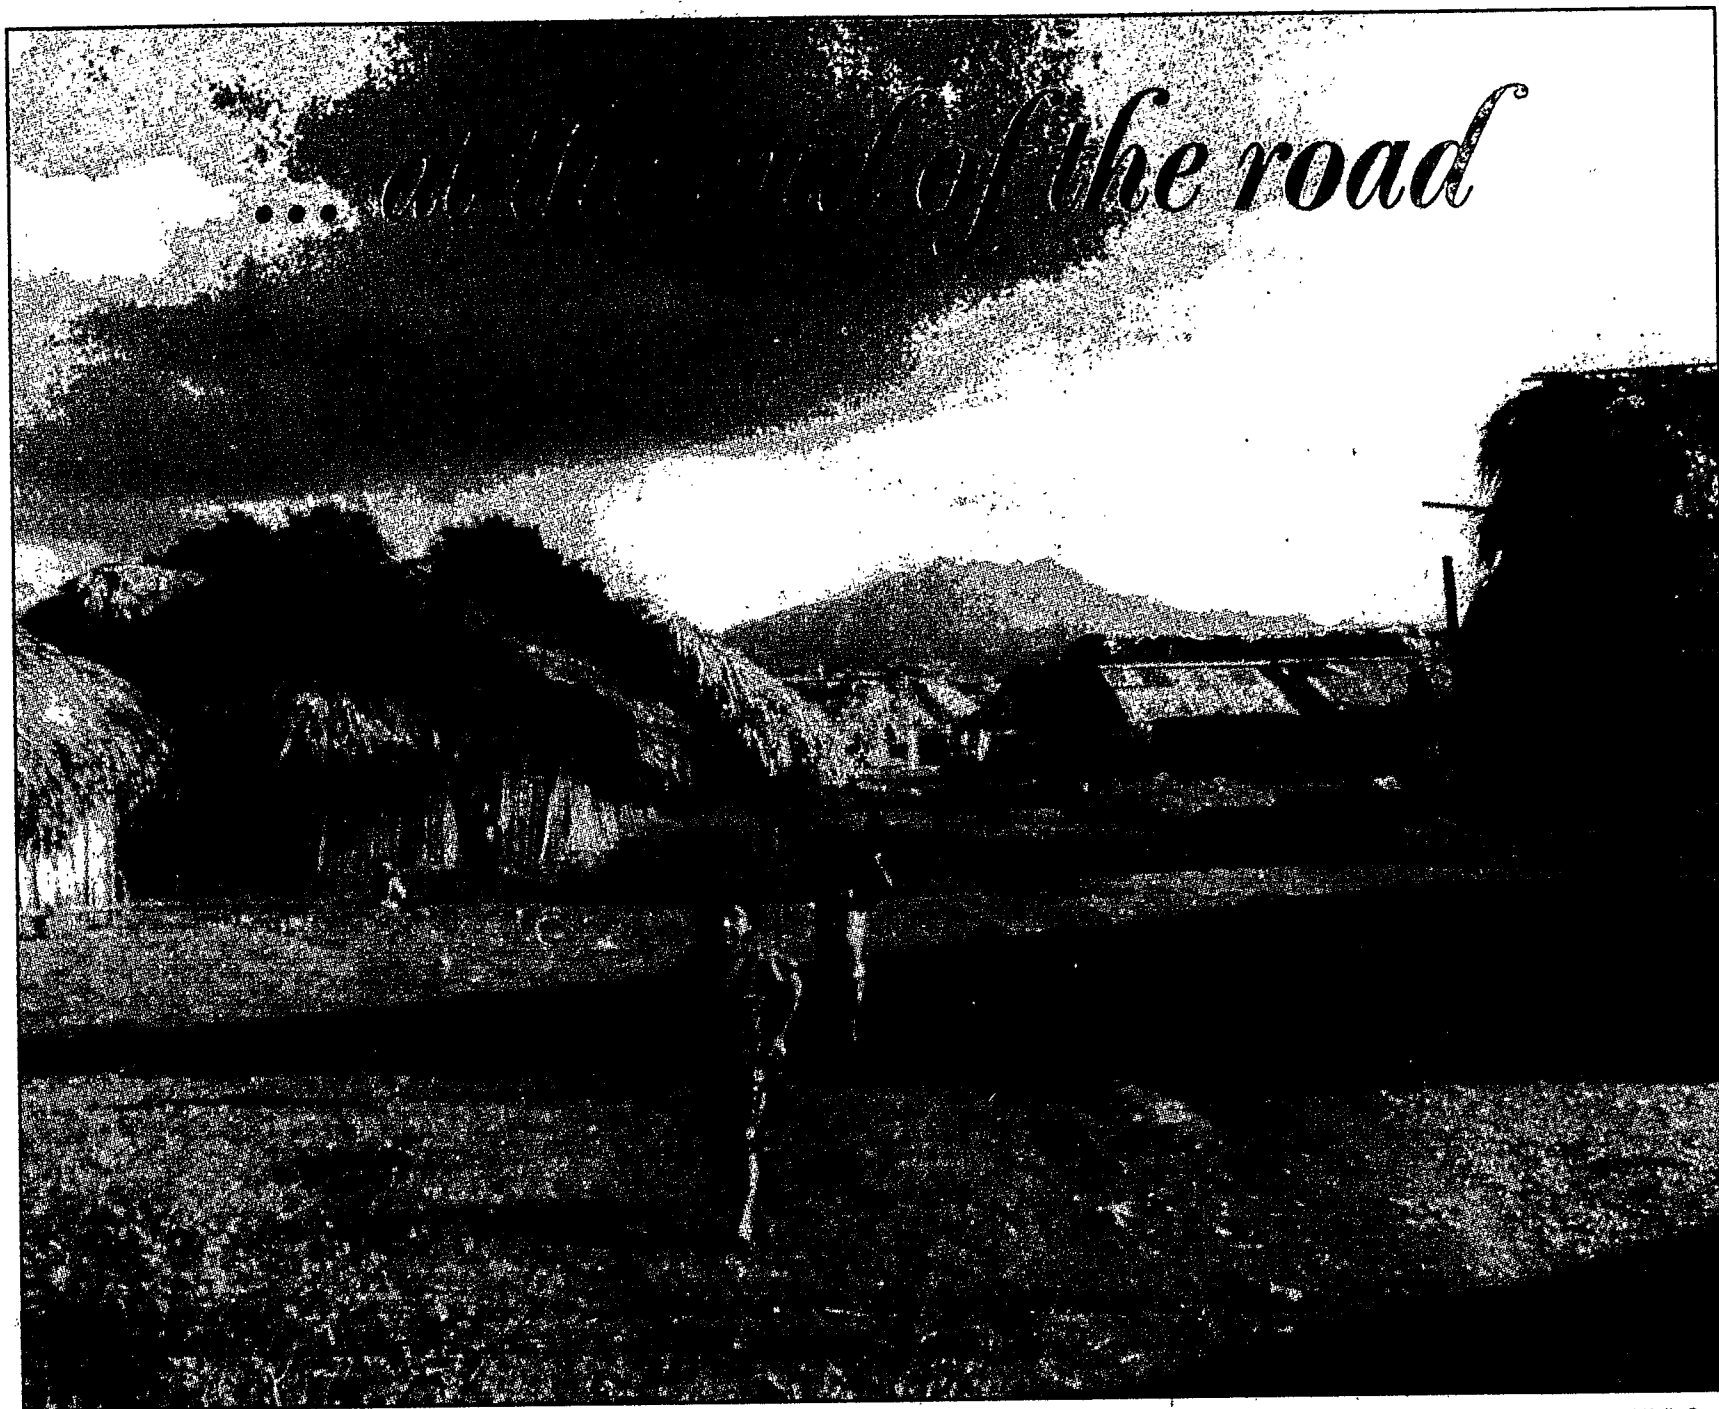

Humans turn blue when they get cold. Plants turn purple when the soil is too cold. These chromatic aberrations are due to entirely different reactions to external temperatures. Cold air makes the human body keep red arterial blood away from extremities causing the darker "blue" venous blood to be more observable. Cold soil greatly slows root growth and decreases the amount of phosphorus the plant absorbs. The biochemical pathways of the plant respond to the lack of phosphorus by manufacturing anthocyanins instead of sugars. This causes the veins in plants to turn purple. Anthocyanins are not unusual. They are the "red" in red cabbage and red mustard, and provide some of the colors in autumn leaves. The cold rain and low temperatures this week may turn your young tomatoes and corn purple, but the strange color will go away with sunshine and warmth.

The recent rains have filled up our soil profiles. They have also made our fire ants build above-ground mounds and betray their location. Now is the time to launch a neighborhood ant control program. If everyone on the block will kill all the ants in their landscape, the time for re-infestation will be much longer. Homeowners in the middle may be ant free for several months if everyone in the subdivision will kill ants now. The best method for control is to use a bait followed by a mound treatment a week or two later. Control measures are more effective if it is warm enough for the ants to be active.

Grapes have been on people's minds lately. Both table grapes and muscadines are being considered as additions to landscapes. The key to selecting which grape to use is centered around a pesky problem called Pierce's disease. The disease is caused by bacteria, which is spread by insects called sharpshooters. Bay teacher on a mission from God

Staff Writer

In a place where the highway linking Alaska to Argentina literally ends, locals Kelly and Brian Case, say they have learned a lot about hope, happiness, and being thankful for the blessings in their lives. The couple are members of a medical missionary group who travel to Panama to bring medicines and the word of God to the people of the Darien Rain Forest.

Kelly is a 5th grade teacher at Second St. Elementary School in Bay St. Louis, and was recently honored as teacher of the year. Brian owns Magnolia Landscaping. Their missionary group is from their church, the Long Beach Church of Christ.

The Darien region is the largest province in Panama, the most sparsely populated and the least well known. It is home to many indigenous people and the highest degree of bio-diversity in the entire world.

Until 20 years ago there were no roads in the area, but now a gravel highway cuts through the center of the province to the town of Yaviza, about 100 kilometers from the Colombian border.

A stretch of some 54 miles,

We sail up the moonpath

Editor's note: Mr. La Violette is taking 6 weeks of to promote his new book, Sink or be Sunk. In his absence we are publishing a series of his early stories on sailing in the Mississippi Sound. We hope you enjoy them.

Once, when my daughter, Cathy, came down on a visit, I left the sails up overnight on my Sunfish. This is a 14-foot personal sailboat that's barely big enough for one and a half adults. Cathy is a forester for the state of Georgia, and it's nice to have her come here occasionally and get her to look at something besides trees. We had been sailing earlier that day, and I told her that since there was no real weather threat, we could leave the Sunfish rigged for a quick sunset or early morning run.

It was the time of the full moon and, because of the exceptionally clear skies, my real intention was to surprise her with a sail in the moonlight. At about nine o'clock, I called her out on the front porch.

"What do you think, baby duck," I asked, pointing to the rigged Sunfish on the beach. The moon had just risen and had laid down a path on the water that ran from the horizon to our beach. "Would you like to run up the moon path with me?"

"Would I, Dad? Let's go." In minutes, we had pushed the boat out, lowered the centerboard, and with a strong evening breeze on the sail, were on a long reach, straight up a silver path to the moon; I on the tiller, she on the sails.

"Keep an eye out for pilings," I shouted. "There are two close together around here somewhere."

"Pilings? Where?"

Views From a Front Porch

by Paul Estronza La Violette
laviolet@mail.datasync.com

I whipped the tiller to one side and two tall, thin shadows flew by on our windward side. "There," I said looking back.

You could see them now with the moonlight on them, but from the other side they were black on black. I turned back around and concentrated on keeping us on as fast a run on the reach as possible. We flew.

I could hear the ripple of the wake behind us and see it reflected in the light, spread from our stern like a long fat tail. Ahead, slightly to my left, was the black silhouette of the sail, beyond it the sparkling path, stretching on and on toward the horizon and the low-hanging golden moon. It was one of those rare magic, seemingly endless moments. It was a perfect sharpshooter is currently spreading this disease through the California vineyards in hybrid varieties formerly thought tolerant. Although folks in North Mississippi have a moderate risk of developing the disease, growers south of I-20 are almost certain to develop it in European grapes. Muscadines seldom develop the disease. Remember all grapes require well-drained soils and support to grow well.

Most of us have become more environmentally conscious and are willing to "pitch in" to help the environment by recycling our aluminum cans, plastic containers, used motor oils and perhaps purchasing appliances that are more energy-efficient. You can become an even greater environmental steward by properly maintaining your home lawn and landscape. Just think of what our world would be like without lawns, trees, and shrubs! Herein the US, there is more than 31 million acres of grass and our home lawns are often overlooked as major environmental helpers. Grass conserves water and cleans the air. The next time it rains, notice where the water comes from that fills the street gutters and storm drains. Not from our lawns because dense, healthy turf is superb in trapping precipitation and reducing soil erosion. A healthy lawn of about ten thousand square feet can absorb over six thousand gallons of rainwater without noticeable runoff. This water then becomes a valuable resource in nourishing the lawn, trees and shrubs while soaking through the topsoil and replenishing groundwater reserves. This same lawn may have as many as eight million individual grass plants serving as primary collectors of dust, dirt, and air pollutants while producing oxygen vital to our survival. Lawns provide energy conservation and comfort. A well maintained lawn could keep your home cooler on hot days by reducing surface temperatures as much as 30 to 40 degrees compared to bare soil and 50 to 70 degrees cooler than asphalt. Your lawn probably has more air conditioning capacity than your central air conditioning unit. Lawns improve soil quality. Grass plants are continually building new topsoil from decomposing roots, stems and leaves. A typical lawn will produce 233 pounds of grass clippings per 1,000 square feet during each growing season, therefore, cycling grass clippings back on the lawn definitely helps the environment and reduces landfill waste. Lawns, in addition to environmental benefits, provides a place to relax, have fun, generally feel good, about ourselves and even increase property values by as much as 15 percent. Therefore, the next time you are working hard to make your lawn look good pat yourself on the back for being a good environmental steward.

Paradise -- at the end of the road through two national parks in the two countries of Columbia and Panama, the Darien Gap is the last unconstructed section of the 16,000 mile long Pan American Highway.

When preacher Dan Huggins came to Long Beach from Alabama three years ago, he brought with him a legacy of missionary work in Central America. He organized a group of volunteers at his new church to continue the work. About 25 people from the church make the journey to the rain forest. The Cases go in the summer, but groups also go down before Christmas and in January. Joining them are other missionary groups as well as doctors, dentists, and other medical personnel, who volunteer from across the country, and many Panamanians.

After arriving in Panama City by plane, the group travels to the Darien Rain Forest in a school bus like vehicle, Kelly said, about a day's journey.

"It takes a long time to get anywhere," said Kelly. "And the highway at this point is just a big horrible road filled with potholes."

Accommodations are primitive, a hose coming out of a wall for a shower in the one makeshift bathroom that the entire group uses. Bathing in the ocean is sometimes an option, Kelly said. To travel between villages the volunteers often walk, she said.

Days begin early for the "clinics." People begin to line up at 4 a.m. to see the doctors. They arrive by foot, on donkeys, and in canoes. Volunteers are awakened to the sounds of monkeys swinging in the huge trees and other sounds of the jungle.

As well as performing open air surgery, treating various illnesses, and providing eyeglasses and medicines, volunteers seek to help people learn a few basics of survival. They teach some basic rules of hygiene, nutrition and caring for oneself and one's children. A lot of time is spent ridding adults and children of head lice and the group may "wash down" an entire school full of children, Kelly said.

Education is provided by the government to the sixth grade, she said. After that children must go to Panama city to further their education, something most people never have the opportunity to do.

"The people have nothing," she said. "Not even an aspirin for a headache. But I was amazed at how content they are with so little ... they live day to day under conditions that most of us (Americans) could not take; yet they were happy and would have given us the clothes off their back if we had needed them. I went to help them, but I ended up getting so much more than I gave."

Despite language and cultural differences, Brian built a strong friendship with a Panamanian volunteer. The man came to visit the Cases. He was absolutely fascinated by the television, they said.

Recently trips very close to the Colombian border have had to be curtailed, the Cases said. The dense jungle and mountainous terrain provides a barrier between the two countries and the troubles that Columbia is experiencing. But that close to the border, there is always the danger of violence because of the warring drug lords, Kelly said. The couple did actually get to cross into Columbia and come right back.

"Just so we could say we had been to South America," Kelly said.

The indigenous cultures that the Cases encountered were a source of fascination for the couple. Many of the villagers lived as they must have a hundred years ago, Brian said, with hunting and fishing, with traditional tribal dress.

The couple had the good fortune of visiting a village that was hosting a tribal council. Tradition required that the village provide food for everyone in attendance and the food of choice, the Cases said, were mounds and mounds of fish, all charred black.

Kuna Indians, one of the indigenous people of the region, are a matriarchal society. The women dress in colorful clothing which they adorn with designs representing various aspects of Kuna culture.

Marriage ceremony was also a source of fascination for Brian. There were many traditions, he said, but the one he recalled was a tribe that tied up the potential bride groom the night before the wedding. If the man escaped, he did not have to be married.

"I think that if the man wanted to be married, he probably did not try to escape," Brian said.

Time is also a completely different concept in the area, the couple said. There didn't seem to be any strict times for doing anything. There is no need to carry a watch, Kelly said, they don't go by time.

The Cases ate mostly rice and beans on their trip and of course, fresh fruit, especially pineapple. Bottled water was carried with the group. They were treated like royalty by the government officials, Kelly said, and even invited to visit the presidential palace.

Brian will likely make another trip to the area this summer. Kelly is not sure if she will be able to manage the trip, but when their two children are a little older, she plans to take them to the rain forest so they can experience the extraordinary beauty for themselves.

"The lifestyle is natural and the country is beautiful and undeveloped," Brian said.

"Coupled with the positive personalities of the people and their relaxed lifestyle, it is a very soothing experience."

Beads R Us

Beads R Us located at 131 Main St. is a family business, owned and operated by Ms. Frances Graves, daughter, Jane Graves Brown & son-in-law Bill Brown and Ms. Frances' Mother Agnes C. Lynn. What started out as a hobby for Ms. Frances Graves has turned into a full-fledged business. Several years ago Ms. Frances began beading as a way to relieve stress. This hobby soon became an obsession. Beading took over Ms. Frances' bedroom, then moved to the den, then to the beauty salon (The Beauty Depot) and then finally to Beads R Us. The charming little store is full of delightful surprises. Pretty glass bowls and punch cups are brimming with hundreds of styles of beads. Everything from crystal to genuine pearls can be found at Beads R Us. The shop also carries a nice selection of beading supplies & accessories.

The store is growing daily as more & more people are discovering the joy of beading. Bead R Us also offers class at a minimal cost of only $15.00 plus the cost of supplies. The next class offered is on Sat. April 19 and it is for confirmation rosary bracelets. The class is from 2pm - 4pm and the instructor is none other than the bead master herself - Frances Graves. The next class offered is Sat. April 26th from 2pm - 4pm. It's called girls day out. Grandmothers, moms, daughters, come spend the day together learning to make jewelry in honor of Mom for Mother's Day. Instructors are Ms. Frances and Kristen Meehan, the shop's manager. Bay High Senior Wins Scholarship

Despite stormy weather this Tuesday, approximately 750 high school seniors visited PRCC's Spring Fest to learn more about the college. Students learned about the various school departments at the college fair and then were treated with performances by PRCC's jazz band, show choir, modeling team, and dance team. Seven students were randomly selected to compete in the free throw basketball contest. The winner, Carmen Gabat of Bay High, won the scholarship for her first semester with eight free throws in 30 seconds. The seniors were (front, left) Lindsey Gallant of Forrest County Agricultural High School, Carmen Gabat of Bay High, Earl Fortenberry of Picayune, Chase Kelly of Prentiss Christian School, Zack Taylor of West Marlon High School, Tanner Graves of Sumrall High, and D.J. Hughes of Forrest County Agricultural High School.

run. Finally, however, we had to end it. We came about and started the long return run. We switched. This time Cathy had the tiller and I, the sail. Going back over our route, I could see the muted, almost monotone colors of the sail. There was, however, no longer a silver path to follow on the return reach; only the general set of the sails, now on my right, and the shore lights gave us a general bearing.

After a bit, Cathy yelled, "Here comes the pole." I looked around the sail. There was only one piling coming up and it went quickly by. It was short, too short. I looked around us. Where was the other one? I peered under the sail toward the beach. I could tell we were farther offshore than on the outgoing leg, but that was all.

To me, the shore lights were a jumble of streetlights and houselights amid indistinguishable dark shapes. Behind us the moon path led right up to the boat, but of course it would always be oriented that way, no matter where we were. Except for the angle of the sail, I had no idea where to steer.

We were lost. "Are we lost?" yelled Cathy. "No," I shouted back, still searching the shore for anything familiar. "We just need to make a tack and we'll be right in there."

"When should I tack?" "Soon," I said, "I'll tell you when. Keep on this heading. You're doing fine." I peered desperately at the shoreline. There had to be something, some combination of lights I could recognize. There wasn't.

"Now?" She said after a few minutes. She sounded worried.

"In a second." Suddenly, I recognized the streetlight at the end of Nicholson Avenue. We were directly opposite it. To our right, and slightly behind us, I could make out the light at the end of Carrere's distinctively long pier. Beyond that lay our beach. We were no longer lost!

"All right, now," I yelled.

Cathy shifted the tiller and I ducked, letting the sail swing over me, and we were on a tack headed for Carrere's pier.

"To your right a little," I said, chopping my arm to the correct setting. "Good. Stay that way and we'll be home in a couple of minutes." I cleated the sheet I had been holding in my hand.

Settling down deeper into the cockpit and letting my feet hang over the side, I leaned back to enjoy the end of the ride.

Later, when we were walking up to the house, Cathy said, "You were lost, weren't you, Dad?"

"Lost! Cathy, I know my way around out there like the back of my hand. We came straight in with only one tack. How can you say that?"

"Dad, you were lost." "No way, baby duck." But I knew I wasn't fooling her, and she knew that I knew I wasn't fooling her.

Facts About The BIBLE

SAFETY IN FORTIFICATION

IN BIBLICAL TIMES PEOPLE ONLY FELT SAFE WHEN THEY HAD THE WALLS OF A TOWN STRONG ENOUGH TO WITHSTAND THE ONSLAUGHT OF RAPACIOUS ATTACKERS. WALLS SOMETIMES SEVENTY FEET THICK WERE NOT UNUSUAL. ALSO DOUBLE WALLS WERE QUITE COMMON. ONE CAN IMAGINE THE CHAGRIN OF THE ATTACKING FORCES WHO HAD FINALLY MANAGED TO PUNCH A HOLE IN THE WALL ONLY TO REALIZE THAT A SCANT FIFTY FEET MORE THERE WAS ANOTHER WALL TO BE PENETRATED! NO WONDER, WHEN MAKING AN OATH, PEOPLE OF TEND TIMES WOULD SWEAR BY THE TOWERING WALL OF THEIR NATIVE HOMES.

Reflections on Life
the Final Four

Festive, frenetic, boisterous and exuberant even by New Orleans standards, a delirious crowd of 55,000 screaming fans in the sold-out Louisiana Super Dome were in their element, enjoying the rush and ecstasy of the ultimate climax of March Madness. La crème de la crème, 65 teams of the NCAA elite had been whittled down to the Sweet 16, the Final Four, and now two.

Proudly sporting their own unique equivalent of the World Series, the Super Bowl, the NBA championship series, the Masters at Augusta or the Kentucky Derby, college basketball fans showed the world what it means to be devotees and joyous practitioners of pure amateurism at its very best.

And show they did. The huge amount and intensity of energy spread over the entire month of March and culminating in gladiatorial combat in early April is epitomized by the scores of cities around the U.S. which vie long and furiously to be designated as the site of the Final Four. The economic boon and priceless civic publicity are measured in terms of megadollars.

Who would doubt that it is all in God's own divine plan of linkage between the City of Man and the City of God that, coming hot on the heels of March Madness, the Final Four plays out around the time of Palm Sunday, Good Friday and Easter Sunday? After all, the real millennium-old Final Four are Death, Judgment, Heaven, Hell. And they play out all the time.

Hosting the real Final Four has nothing to do with the collegiate Final Four concerns such as whom you know, what your connections are, where you live, or how well-lined your wallet is. The simple fact of the matter is that all cities in the whole world host the real Final Four, and each citizen on earth, whether in a city or the jungle, is a personal host of the real Final Four.

All of Lent has hammered this home to us with Scripture readings from both Testaments which put in our face and on our minds the realities and immeasurable importance of Death, Judgment, Heaven and Hell. This Final Four reminds us that there is no other final anything of substantive value.

Palm Sunday slams in with pomp and splendor, showing us the King of the universe astride the foal of an ass, riding triumphantly into Jerusalem amid the thunderous, reverberating hosannas of thousands of Jews and some Gentiles yearning for the rule of the Messiah, the Liberator, the Savior.

Alas, the fickleness of our human species reared its ugly head within three days as Judas Iscariot began to weigh his options, scouting the territory and environment on Spy Wednesday. From the adulation and sky-high praise and

Reflections
on Life
by Father Jerome

pomp of Palm Sunday, a total, deadly turnaround was brewing which would lead to the mighty King's arrest, humiliation and murder.

Do not be alarmed if this incredible story, this sequence of events does not quite click in your mind. It does not compute in mine either. It is doubtful that anyone anywhere is capable of comprehending the height and depth, the length and breadth, the transcendent scope of those breath-taking days.

Understand it or not, the signature events and the everyday grind of our entire life are summarized, cap-sulized and dramatically illustrated by the awesome events of Holy Week. In anyone's life, Palm Sunday's glamour, glory and fame soon give way to the treachery and betrayal of Holy Thursday and the disgrace, savagery and crucifixion of Good Friday.

By the grace and mercy of God, things do not stop at Good Friday in our life; otherwise, we would live and die in the throes of despair. Death, the first of the Final Four, is handily dealt with by the mind-bending events of Easter Sunday. Death, the one event which strikes ultimate terror into the minds and hearts of us all, has been destroyed by the Savior's resurrection.

No wonder, then, we are called Easter people, since the rise-again rationale for our life is displayed in our Godly way of living and enables us to smile and rise above all the pains, deprivations, illness and dying which afflict us.

We are the only bona fide eternal optimists in the history of humankind.

Judgment, the second of the Final Four, likewise holds no terror, unless we decide to turn our backs on the Messiah, the only source of hope and peace. We have nothing to fear from the Judge at the Final Judgment provided we, in his own words, have kept what has been commanded us by his Father.

Heaven, the most romantic, the most beautiful and comforting of the Final Four, is a consoling thought which follows the living of a Godly life leading to a successful Final Judgment. "What eye has not seen, and ear has not heard, and what has not entered the human heart, what God has prepared for those who love him." (1 Corinthians 2:9)

Hell, the most troublesome of the Final Four, means nothing more nor less than eternal separation from God, which is unthinkable. We simply turn from away from hell to union with God "who will wipe every tear from their eyes, and there shall be no more death or mourning, wailing or pain, for the old order has passed away." (Revelation 21:4)

The "Word" for the Week
Celebrate your hope

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

The most important Christian holiday, the celebration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ, is upon us. But in our scientific age, with all our technology, it is hard for us to believe in the bodily resurrection.

Most scientists look at our bodies as machines. We do not have souls, which animate and give life to our bodies. And so there is no after life. When the machine breaks down, you discard it. I believe this is the thinking behind cremation. Cremation is a simple, inexpensive way to get rid of the unrepairable machine of our bodies.

In a scene from Star Trek, the Next Generation an alien died. The question was asked, "What do you want us to do with the body?" And the answer by the dead alien's friend was simple. "Do with it what you will. It's just an empty container."

In other words, our bodies, once dead, can be thrown on the rubbish heap. They're like crushed pop cans thrown by the roadside. This is an empty view of life. People don't know from where they came! They don't know why they exist. And they don't know where they are going. Why? Why? Why? What are the answers to these nagging questions?

We came from God, the Creator. We are given purpose in this life by God. And each one of us has an eternal destiny.

Death does not end it all. How do we know this? Jesus Christ, the crucified Son of God, was raised from the dead? And there is a great proof of the resurrection. It is the change in the lives of the disciples. These men and women were changed from a fearful band to bold representatives of Christ ready to lay down their lives.

This change is a well-documented historical fact. And it stems from the disciples seeing the risen Lord. Isn't it time for you to seriously consider the bodily resurrection of Christ?

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

Most people believe God is a loving God; and that He is. Most people believe He is a merciful God; and that He is. People believe He is a forgiving God; and that He is also.

However, He is also a just God. God Almighty says what He means, and means what He says.

He gave us the Ten Commandments and He expects us to live by them. To Love Him with all our hearts and mind; To NOT use His name in vain; to Honor the Sabbath Day; To Honor our Father and Mother. Not to murder a human being, not to steal or bear false witness against our neighbor, and He says also to love one another. These things we don't do; because our fallen nature won't let us do them. Rom. 8: 7, 8. So therefore we are all condemned adulterers, liars, fornicators, thieves will not enter the Kingdom of God.

So if that's the case, why did He give us these commandments? He did so to make us realize our righteousness is as filthy rags, in His sight; and we ALL do fade as a leaf and our iniquities, like the wind have taken us away. Isa. 64:6

For those who say and thin they keep all of the Commandments of God, do error.

The only person who ever lived who kept all of God's Law and who was righteous in the sight of God, was Jesus. So when we acknowledge our lost condition and ask Jesus the Son of God to save us from the wrath of God, He will.

It's Jesus' righteousness that will make us righteous, and God will than and only than receive us into His Kingdom.

The Book of Romans bears these truth's to be so.

Gandy finds job as senior project manager exciting

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Dr. Barbara Taylor Gandy likes the challenges her job as a Workforce Training Project Manager has brought the last seven years since she joined Pearl River Community College's Workforce Development Center.

She has served Marion, Jefferson Davis and Lamar counties, as well as worked with several industries in Forrest County. She is also a director for the PRCC law enforcement academies that train officers in the PRCC six-county district.

"Dr. Gandy's presence in the Workforce Development Center has been a significant factor in the center's success in delivering workforce training to businesses and industries throughout the Pearl River Community College district," said Ed Felsher, director of the Workforce Development Center. "She has been exceptionally effective in understanding each customer's training objectives and designing and delivering training programs that exceeded customer expectations."

Today, Gandy has additional responsibilities. On Dec. 1, 2002, she took over as Senior Workforce Training Project Manager. She is ultimately responsible for all Workforce Training Projects in PRCC's six-county district, which includes Forrest, Lamar, Marion, Jefferson Davis, Pearl River and Hancock counties.

Her new job came about as part of some reorganization in the Workforce Development Center, brought about by the beginning of construction on the Advanced Technology Center in Hattiesburg, which will open 2004.

"In her new position, Dr. Gandy's role in the business of workforce training will be expanded," said Felsher. "In addition to personally and directly initiating and managing a significant number of training projects, she will be expected to exercise supervision over all other training projects initiated and managed by our workforce training team, from project initiation to final accounting of funds."

Gandy will also be required to train all of the Workforce Development Center's newly assigned Project Managers and Project Assistants in skills necessary to effectively and efficiently manage workforce training projects.

"We used to have three workforce project managers; now we have only two," said Gandy. The second workforce project manager is Angelia Ryals, who began her new position March 5.

"For the next six months, it will be a priority to train (Ryals) and make sure we make as many contacts as we can," said Gandy. "Not knowing what our budget is going to be year to year makes it hard to knock on many new doors."

"Ultimately, I will now choose what projects in which county to work and who will work it. When Angelia is on board, and as new assignments come in, I will make the assignments. My goal is to get both of us in all six of our counties on a regular basis."

PRCC's Workforce Development Center in Hattiesburg served more than 10,500 citizens within its six-county district last year. From July 1, 2001 to June 30, 2002, the Center participated in training partnerships with 61 organizations, primarily businesses and industries that pay taxes and exist to make a profit. Those training partnerships provided basic skills, technical and job specific training to working men and women.

The state Board for Community and Junior Colleges supported workforce training in the PRCC district with more than $1.5 million of state training funds for 95 projects.

Currently, there are 57 workforce training projects in place this year.

In an effort to attract more companies, Gandy wants to work on establishing more consortium-type efforts like the law enforcement training that the WDC already offers. Then PRCC can offer training that will benefit all members of the consortium whether it involves computer training or OSHA training.

"If our funding holds up, I would like to build our law enforcement training back up," Gandy said. "It has been scaled down in recent years due to funding."

That training would include academies for Hancock County Sheriff Steve Garber (center) and Lt. Abry Liebig (right) were recently presented the Best Practices Award during the Workforce Council meeting in Jackson. reserve officers, refresher-type skills training for law enforcement officers and correctional training for jailers who deal with inmates.

Gandy, who spent seven and one-half years as a senior admissions counselor at the University of Southern Mississippi before joining PRCC, looks forward to making new clients for the Workforce Development Center.

"The thing I like about my job is it is different all the time, it offers new challenges," said Gandy. "Companies need training all the time. We do not have money to market what we do, so we have to rely on local area development partnerships to inform us when new companies come in. A lot of what we do is passed along word of mouth. People think our services are too good to be true."

For more information about workforce training activities through the PRCC Workforce Development Center, contact Gandy at (601) 554-5532.

Six Flags New Orleans opens new 'Batman' coaster to rave reviews

Twisting steel, wicked vertical drops and tight hairpin turns promise unparalleled thrills

THE SEA COAST ECHO

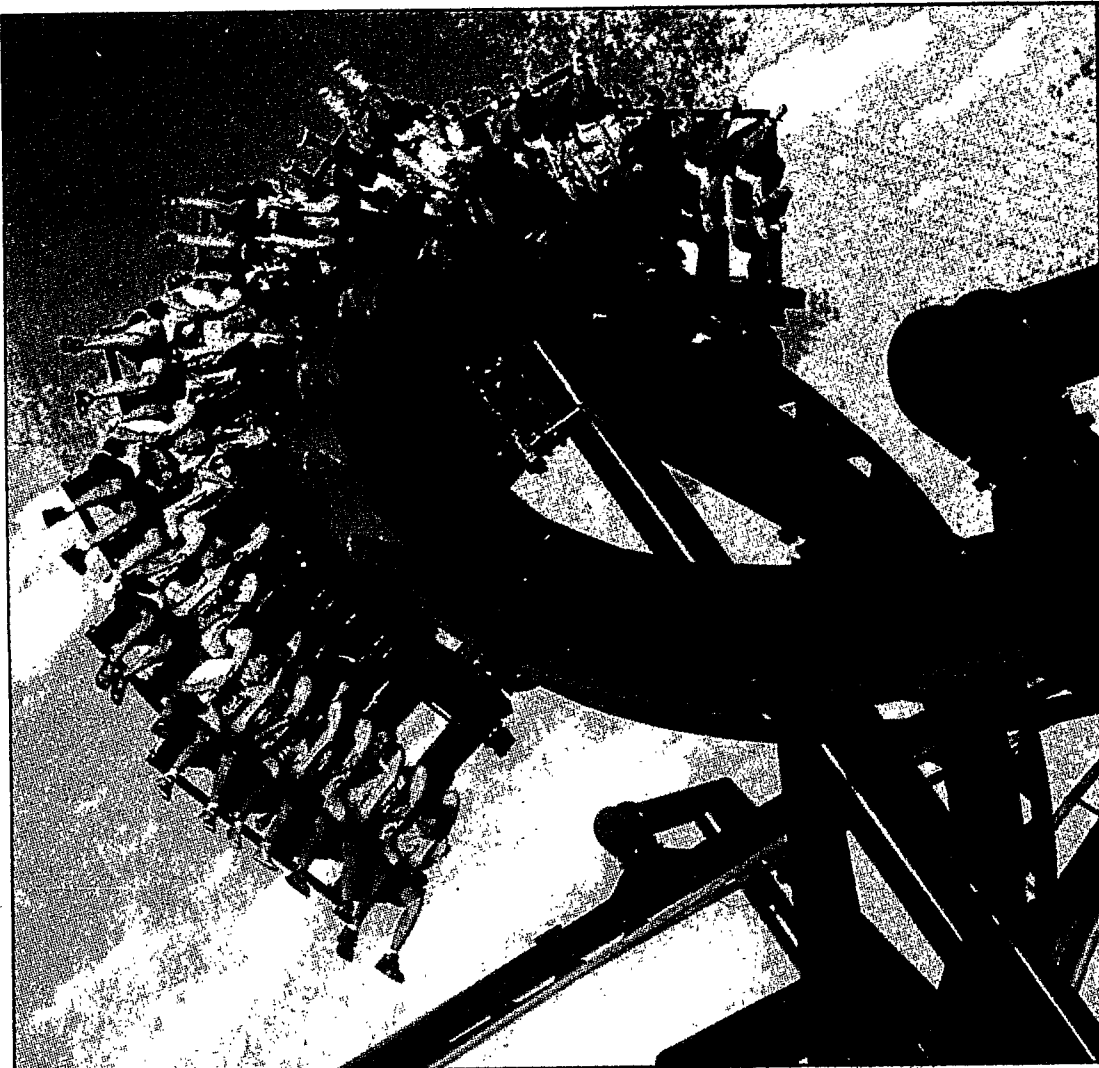

When Six Flags New Orleans opened the 2003 season Saturday, the newly transformed park with its six uniquely themed areas, introduced two of the most awesome roller coasters in the region. The addition of the two new coasters brings the park's total coaster package to an impressive six!

Created by the renowned roller coaster designers at Bolliger & Mabillard, BATMAN: THE RIDE will make super heroes of all who dare to ride it. Based on the popular DC Comics Super Hero, BATMAN: THE RIDE is a world-class, suspended looping steel coaster that will send riders on a soaring, 50 mph journey 105 feet into the air along 2,700 feet of twisting steel track. Seated comfortably in ski lift-style chairs, with only air beneath their feet, riders will experience hairpin turns, vertical loops, corkscrews and a one-of-a-kind, zero gravity heart line spin, that will leave them screaming for more! BATMAN: THE RIDE will reside in the DC Comics Super Heroes Adventures area of the park along with 3 other exciting new rides: Lex Luthor's Invertatron, Catwoman's Whip and The Joker's Jukebox.

The other new coaster that is sure to be a hit with coaster enthusiasts and the truly daring is The Jester, a 1,936-foot steel roller coaster located in the Mardi Gras area of the park. The Jester will thrill riders with its spiral curve, 360-degree vertical loop and 79-foot drop! And just for the thrill of it... it travels backwards! This Jester is sure to thrill and amuse!

The two new coasters along with the returning Mega-Zeph (a 4,000-foot long, 110-foot high wooden roller coaster), the Zydeco Scream, the Muskrat Scrambler and the newly named Road Runner Express for kids, will offer a truly exciting coaster experience for riders of all ages who seek the thrill of a lifetime.

"The addition of two new coasters in one season is a phenomenal enhancement to any theme park," said Terry Prather, Six Flags New Orleans general manager. "These two thrill machines offer an experience like no other in the region. They are a perfect compliment to our four other coasters and a sure bet to delight our guests."

In addition to its incredible coasters, Six Flags New Orleans, with its new mature live oaks, southern magnolias, and shade structures providing 70% more shade along the midway, will offer countless exciting entertainment options from the mild to the wild.

From the newly themed Looney Tunes Adventures area for our pint-sized patrons to the exciting live stage shows and attractions, including the new Batman Thrill Spectacular, Six Flags will offer something for every member of the family.

The best way to enjoy the awesome new coasters and all the excitement Six Flags New Orleans has to offer is through the purchase of a Six Flags New Orleans Season Pass. Celebrity Scoop

Checking in with Michelle Forbes

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

However upsetting the information they share, Michelle Forbes always has the ear of America's most powerful man on "24."

The actress plays Lynne Kresge - the chief aide to President David Palmer (Dennis Haysbert) - on the Tuesday Fox series, which is getting down to the wire in its hour-by-hour tracing of a day that has Los Angeles under the threat of nuclear terrorism.

Lynne is fiercely loyal to her boss and highly protective of him, often meaning trouble for his scheming ex-wife, Sherry (Penny Johnson Jerald), who always seems to know much more than she reveals.

Though she is in the thick of the action on "24" in its second year, Forbes entered the much-praised series almost blindly.

"Like an idiot, I didn't see it the first season," she admits. "I was working in London, and (the show) was just massive there. '24' was all that anyone was talking about, but I just have a hard time finding things on television, even things I really love. I was called on a Friday to start work on '24' the following Monday."

Forbes quickly tried to catch up by watching tapes of the show's first year, but she still found herself in the deep end of the pool when she began filming. "They threw four scripts at me, with four different stories that were all intertwined. That's a lot of information to wrap your head around."

While Forbes enjoys reading each "24" script fully, she usually sees only the co-stars who are in her scenes. "It's a very sad thing," she maintains, "because I love so many of the actors on the show. With Kiefer (Sutherland), I've had only a couple of phone calls, and that's it."

Michelle Forbes

Birthplace: Austin, Texas.

Birth date: Jan. 8.

Other TV series roles: Dr. Julianna Cox, "Homicide: Life on the Street"; Ensign Ro Laren, "Star Trek: The Next Generation"; Helen York, "The District"; Dr. Lyla Garrity, "Wonderland"; Solita Carrera/Solita Carrera Lewis, "Guiding Light."

Movies: "Perfume," "John Carpenter's Escape From L.A.," "Swimming With Sharks," "The Road Killers," "Love Bites," "Kallifornia," "The Playboys."

On Lynne's "24" battles with Sherry: "Those are interesting, fun scenes to play. There's a certain amount of decorum that (Lynne) must present. There's a great sense of fun in having a flare-up every so often, but there has to be a certain amount of protocol."

A woman is forced at gunpoint into the trunk of her car, which is then pushed into a lake.

Two huge dogs maul a little boy as his mother hurls her body over his, trying to shield him.

A first-grader trips and falls on her pencil, which pierces her heart.

These emergencies, all encountered by real women, beg one question: What do you do?

Lifetime does a terrific job of re-enacting these terrifying situations and offering expert advice in "What Should You Do?" The hourlong series kicks off Monday, April 14.

Melissa Solaas, kidnapped from the parking lot of her Memphis, Tenn., apartment building in May 2001, escaped from her trunk just in time. She pulled loose carpeting and found the latch to spring open the trunk lid, swimming to safety as the car sank.

"Remember, even if you are scared to death, you are stronger than you think you are," says retired FBI Agent Candice DeLong, one of the show's experts. She suggests running away from a gun-wielding perpetrator because it is quite difficult to hit a moving target, and running in a zigzag pattern is even better.

The boy mauled in Belleville, Ill., in 1998 underwent cosmetic surgery, had his ears reattached and appears to be fine. But the neighbor who assisted the mother in his rescue suffered permanent damage to her arm. The mom, Cinda Robbins, says she recalled her mother teaching her to cover her throat and face if dogs attack. Former Marine Charles Ingram advises punching the animal in the nose and twisting its ears.

And little Destiny, then a first-grader, is alive, thanks to a cool-headed teacher who left the pencil in, despite the initial impulse to pull it free. Surgeons later removed the item, which was lodged three inches into her heart.

Considering the tawdry nonsense that passes for reality TV, "What Should You Do?" is reality TV at its most heightened and useful level.

Rob Lowe is making his way back to the top on his own terms

Rob Lowe is back on top. And while he may have suffered a minor setback with his highly publicized split from "The West Wing," he's done anything but slow down.

The latest Lowe project to hit the small screen is TNT's original film "Framed," premiering Sunday, April 13. Lowe plays Detective Mike Santini, a sharp and committed investigator in charge of mining information from Eddie Meyers (Sam Neill), the key witness in a notorious money-laundering case. As their interviews progress, Meyers draws Santini into the seductively corrupt world of the criminal mastermind, putting the detective's loyalty to his career and family in jeopardy.

Lowe's staunchly middle-class Santini contrasts with his co-star's character - a quasi-Hannibal Lecter, minus the carnivorous appetite.

It's hard to believe TNT initially wanted Lowe to play the felon. "I said, 'No, we need someone who's really a Continental.' And Sam fit it perfectly," Lowe remembers. "I said, 'If I do it, I'm going to be nothing but just an effete. And that's not really something I want to do.' I was much more interested in playing a more working-class everyman."

As the tango of morals and corruption unfolds in "Framed," it's easy to imagine that these two actors really do get along well in real life, a fact Lowe is quick to confirm. "He's my favorite type of person to have on a set - someone who has been in a bunch of hit movies, has been around forever, who has a tremendous body of work and knows the Hollywood ring-around-the-rosy joke parade really, really well and can sit back and laugh."

These days, work isn't such a serious thing for Lowe. He keeps busy, but he prefers working with those who know the reality of their place in the world.

"Listen, particularly with everything that goes on in the world today, what we do seems very trivial," he says. "Neither Sam nor I are under any illusions that we're curing cancer. But you would be surprised how many artists feel like they're at their Bunsen burners cooking up cures. You'd be surprised. There's a lot of self-serious, self-important, pretentious people in this business. Big time. And I just gravitate to the ones where loving your work, respecting what you do and seeing its importance is not a mutually exclusive concept with having some perspective on what's really important."

Unlike his "Framed" character, Lowe isn't conflicted about what he wants. He's a family man who has grown wiser in the last decade, and, in spite of his success, he believes he's kept his feet on the ground. "I'm really into my family," he says. "Seeing my children happy and having a good time is when I'm the happiest."

His much-publicized troubles are far behind him now, and even while he enjoys what he calls the "revenge" of living well with his family, he generally rejects the trappings of success in favor of sticking to his Midwestern roots.

"It's a weird dichotomy," Lowe says. "I live very well, and yet, you know - steak, pizza, hamburgers, Monday Night Football. You know what I mean? I mean, a Laker game, you know? Just like any other guy. You know, I'm from the Midwest. ... I'm from Ohio. I still have what I consider to be a very Midwestern sensibility."

So, has someone so firmly planted in reality been approached about appearing on a reality TV show, and would he do it? "No," he says, laughing at the suggestion. "I haven't fallen that far yet."

Rob Lowe (left) plays a police detective and Sam Neill co-stars as his chief witness in a money-laundering case in "Framed," a TNT original movie premiering Sunday.

Even so, Lowe says he's missed out on a lot of the excitement surrounding the trend. "Honestly, I have not seen one moment of any reality show. I have tried, because I don't want to - the last thing I think of myself as is a cultural elite. So I try to watch it, because clearly a lot of people are, but I've just got to tell you - to me, other than 'American Idol,' which I totally get - the other stuff? It strikes me as really bad, staged acting."

A detectable indignant tone rises in his voice as he continues. "Here's my thing: I'm a professional actor, and I think a decent one. I've been doing this since I've been 8 years old. And it's almost all I can do to forget when the camera's in the room. They mean to tell me some mechanic from Tennessee isn't acting every freakin' moment the camera's there?"

Q Which "Columbo" TV movie featured the real-life wife of Peter Falk? -Diana Kelley, Tampa, Fla.

A Sheri Danese, Falk's wife since 1977, has been in several "Columbo" movies; she appeared in one, 1976's "Columbo: Fade in to Murder," before they tied the knot.

Since then, Danese has played a variety of characters in "Columbo: Murder Under Glass" (1978), "Columbo: Murder, a Self Portrait" (1989), "Columbo: Columbo and the Murder of a Rock Star" (1991), "Columbo: Undercover" (1994) and "Columbo: A Trace of Murder" (1997).

Q On Lifetime's "The Division," is the father of Nancy McKeon's character played by the same actor who played her character's father on "The Facts of Life"? -D.M. in Massachusetts.

A Yes, Emmy winner Alex Rocco, who plays John Exstead Sr. on "The Division," also had a recurring role as Charlie Polniaczek, the father of Jo (McKeon), on "Facts."

Shera Danese and Peter Falk

Q I understand that Jonathan Jackson, formerly of "General Hospital," is married to another cast member from that show. Who is she, and what role did she play? -Lisa Steinmann, Kirkland, Wash.

A Last June, Jackson married Lisa Vultaggio, who played Hannah Scott (1999-2001) on "General Hospital."

Q Is it true that Helena Bonham Carter once appeared on "Miami Vice" as Don Johnson's girlfriend? She seems much younger than he. -Robert Weible, Livonia, Mich.

A In real life, Carter, now 36, is 16 1/2 years younger than Johnson, 53, but pairing younger actresses with older leading men is common in Hollywood. The English actress played Theresa, the ill-fated girlfriend of Sonny Crockett (Johnson), in two 1987 "Vice" episodes.

High-flying Jackie Chan keeps the kids in mind

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

After spending an afternoon watching Jackie Chan shoot international promos for his Kids' WB! animated series "Jackie Chan Adventures," it's hard to believe there's a continent where the show can't be seen.

"Two months ago," Chan says during a break, "I was in Prague, and I see the children looking at me. That really makes me think, 'Yes, I made it.' That's what I want. My dream is that more people know me, and everybody can see my movies. It's really a dream come true."

Over the course of a couple of hours, Chan records on-air promo spots - some with dialogue and channel names that would be tongue-twisting even for a native English speaker - and tapes answers to e-mail questions from young viewers.

A translator is on hand to help Chan through some of the rough spots, but while he may not be fluent in English, his mobile features and graceful, expressive gestures help the Hong Kong native get his message through.

And for a man well into his 40s, Chan's athletic ability and enthusiasm seem undimmed. "The beauty of animation," executive producer Jeff Kline says, "is we can actually take him even further. If Jackie Chan in real life is like a highly sugar-charged 12-year-old, then we can make him into an 'I've just eaten an entire box of Sugar Snaps' 9-year-old in animation."

"One of the reasons it was so appealing to us to do a show with Jackie is because of his energy level, because he's almost a human cartoon."

Now in its third season, "Jackie Chan Adventures" airs Saturday mornings on The WB Network and casts the actor-producer-director as an expert on ancient artifacts who works for the government's secret Section 13. With the help of irrepressible niece Jade and his wise, cantankerous uncle, Chan is on a mission to retrieve talismans from evil crime family the Black Hand.

"At the initial conception," Kline says, "he gave us his persona, both the on-screen persona and the real Jackie Chan. It's the same thing. What's amazing is, the guy you see on screen who seems to be loving life and would not choose to fight if he didn't have to, who is amused and amazed by the smallest things, is the actual Jackie Chan."

After establishing himself as a stuntman, martial artist and filmmaker in Hong Kong, Chan has found success in U.S. films, most notably the contemporary "Rush Hour" crime-comedy trilogy (the third is due out next year) with co-star Chris Tucker and his two kung-fu Westerns with Owen Wilson, "Shanghai Noon" and the recent "Shanghai Knights."

These films showcase Chan's trademark blend of slapstick comedy, high-flying stunts (most of which he does himself) and an inventive use of props.

Chan hopes his TV series exposes him to younger fans - and he keeps them in mind when making his movies. "From the cartoon," he says, "parents allow the children to go see my real movies. All those years, I do like action, but I hate violence. That's why you can see my movie is happy-go-lucky comedy, with all the action. I wanted to tell children, exercise through martial arts, not beating people. There's a difference."

"But when you see Jackie as a superhero on the screen, actually I'm not. I do hurt myself, so there are so many outtakes. Don't do it at home!"

"Jackie Chan Adventures" borrows some of its visual style from Japanese anime, an animation genre that goes far beyond children's shows to include science fiction, horror and adult elements.

Anime influences many children's animated action series, and Chan says, "If you look at cartoons, cartoons more violent than my real movie. Now, the kids see everything. Parents have to be very careful right now."

"I remember I received a letter from a parent, 'So sad, I see the movie, so good, but my son cannot go to see it.' That really filled my mind, so when I'm making a movie from this time, (I think) does this kind of action allow children to see it?"

Sometimes, Chan says, he lowers the violence quotient by taking out certain stunts or graphic sound effects and making the fight scenes nonlethal. "Everybody can get up again. Nobody have a bruise; nobody has blood. It's becoming a comedy. I've been learning to be very careful!"

And what Chan can't quite manage on-screen, he can do in animation. "It's pretty hard to run up an avalanche in a live-action movie," Kline says. "Not that Jackie wouldn't try it, but I think he's reached the point where he's happy to let his animated self run up the avalanche. Maybe it's for insurance reasons."

As to the future of "Jackie Chan Adventures," Kline says, "We reinvent a new arc, a new quest, each season. I feel like we can keep coming up with quests, indefinitely. At its core, the show is about a guy raising his niece. It's about family relationships.

"He's got an uncle who's a pain in the butt. There's an assistant, Tohru, who's come over from the dark side, who's desperately trying to be good and fit in to this extended family. That's the stuff that sitcoms or dramas are made of that run for 10 years. There's no reason we can't as well."

If Chan has his way, one of his young fans may one day take over his movie niche. "I get so many letters (from kids) saying, 'After your success in America with the show, we so proud,'" he says. "Then I write a letter like, 'Look, I'm not the only one. I hope one day, you follow in my footsteps.' That's what I tell them."

'Trading Spaces' carpenter Ty Pennington goes Hollywood

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

Although carpenter Ty Pennington of The Learning Channel's "Trading Spaces" was born and raised in Atlanta and says he's "as Southern as it gets," his spiky hair, casual duds and propensity for saying, "Dude!" probably has many fans assuming he's a California beach boy.

Well, now he is. Calling from his new home in Venice, Calif., Pennington says, "I've got a longboard. When I get time, I get to go surfing down in the sludge."

It's not Pennington's first trip to the Los Angeles area or into show business. After using his carpentry skills to finance a degree in graphic design at the Art Institute of Atlanta, Pennington parlayed his lanky good looks into a modeling career, followed by a stint as a production assistant on movie sets.

Then it was back to Atlanta, where Pennington remodeled an old piano warehouse into apartments - also turning piano parts into sculpture - and completely renovated his house with recycled materials.

Now he's back in Los Angeles, just in time for a pair of celebrity episodes of "Trading Spaces," which gives two sets of neighbors two days, $1,000 and a share in a carpenter to redo each other's rooms.

Airing back to back on Sunday, April 13, the episodes feature Andy Dick and Sara Rue of ABC's "Less Than Perfect," followed by "7th Heaven" stars Beverley Mitchell and Jessica Biel, paired with brothers and co-stars George and Geoff Stults.

Pennington is carpenter for the first episode, with Amy Wynn Pastor on the second.

"I think it's a better show when we don't do celebrities," Pennington says, "because nobody's nervous. It's more like we're the stars of the show." But that doesn't mean he's not happy that celebrities watch. "It blows you away when you find out that Rebecca Romijn-Stamos watches the show. You're like, 'That's a plus.'"

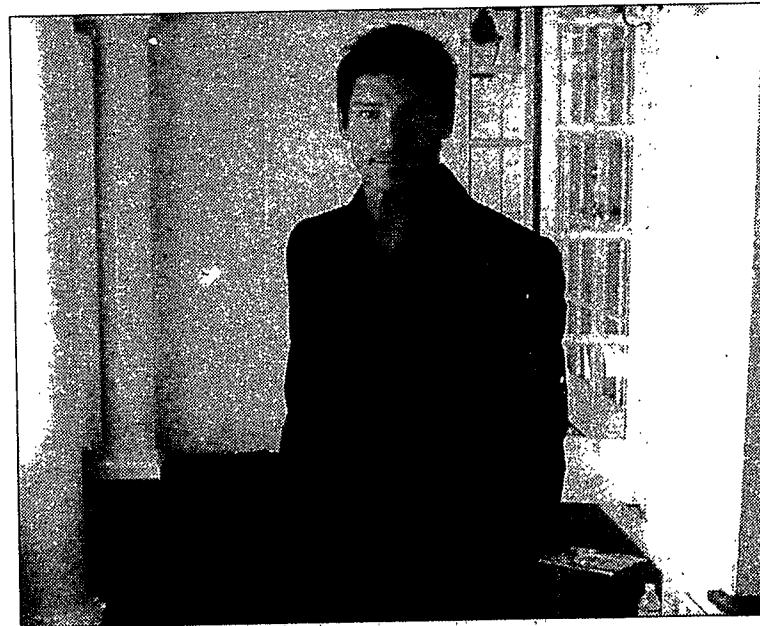

He is a bit worried, though, about the unpredictable Dick. "That should be quite, let's say, challenging. That's awesome, that he will let us into his house, though God knows what he's got prepared for us."

Pennington, who describes his personality as "ADD," has become the show's chief jester and resident sex symbol, which he finds funny - especially when admirers aren't old enough to drive.

"I do these personal appearances, and let's just say I attract a younger audience. These girls are crying and grabbing hold of me and locking on and really being emotional about how much they love me, and I'm like, 'This is awesome; you guys are so sweet.'"

Temporarily without a showroom for his custom-built furniture - made under his Furniture Unlimited banner - Pennington juggles the show's travel schedule, other TV projects, his book ("Ty's Tricks of the Trade") and whatever else comes his way.

"I don't know how or when the 15 minutes are going to be up. I'd love to do some more fun TV shows, but if I end up as a carpenter in a shop, building cool furniture in Venice, Calif., I can be happy with that, too."

Carpenter, ex-model and author Ty Pennington enters the world of Hollywood glitz and glamour when he participates in one of two special celebrity editions of the popular home-improvement series "Trading Spaces." Both episodes premiere Sunday on TLC.

Postseason NBA, NHL, early season MLB top week's slate

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

First-round playoff action in two major sports leagues tops the list of viewing options on the national level this week.

The postseason begins in the NBA on Saturday, April 19, with the opening of the conference quarterfinals on TNT, ESPN and, starting next week, ABC. The three entities cover the quarters and semis, with ABC doing Sunday telecasts only. ESPN and TNT will each air one conference final, and ABC will have exclusive coverage of the NBA Finals. Kobe Bryant, Shaquille O'Neal and the Los Angeles Lakers begin defense of their championship against all comers, including the Sacramento Kings, Dallas Mavericks, San Antonio Spurs, Philadelphia 76ers and New Jersey Nets.

The NHL's Stanley Cup Playoffs, which commenced last week, continues with quarterfinal action that can be seen on ABC, ESPN and ESPN2. ESPN and ESPN2 will offer conference quarterfinal, semifinal and final action weeknights for the balance of the postseason, with ABC airing only Saturday coverage. The Stanley Cup Finals will air exclusively on ABC. The Ottawa Senators, Vancouver Canucks, New Jersey Devils, Dallas Stars and defending champion Detroit Red Wings are considered top Cup contenders.

As one can expect in the first month of the season, the Major League Baseball TV schedule is very limited, but not without interesting matchups. On Sunday, April 13, ESPN taps into a longtime rivalry when Barry Bonds and the defending National League champion San Francisco Giants play host to Shawn Green and the NL West-rival Los Angeles Dodgers. The next night, it's the AL West in the spotlight as Miguel Tejada and the Oakland A's visit Ichiro and the Seattle Mariners. Wednesday afternoon, Jim Edmonds and the St. Louis Cardinals take on Geoff Jenkins and the perennial NL Central doormat Milwaukee Brewers. Over on TBS, the "house" team, the Atlanta Braves, face the NL East-rival Philadelphia Phillies on Friday and Saturday.

For auto racing fans, the biggest event of the week is NASCAR's Virginia 500, which airs Sunday on Fox. Bobby Labonte's only win of 2002 came in this race, and he'll defend his title against Tony Stewart, Matt Kenseth, Jeff Gordon, Jimmie Johnson, Mark Martin and the rest of Winston Cup's best. That same day on ABC is open-wheel racing in the form of the IRL Indy Japan 300, an inaugural event that, because of the time difference, airs on tape-delay from Motegi, Japan. Those who like their speed in its purest form can tune to a drag-racing event, the NHRA Spring Nationals from Baytown, Texas, Sunday on ESPN2.

Not to be forgotten is golf, which finishes up its first major tournament of the year, the Masters, on Sunday (airing commercial-free on CBS). Tiger Woods, if he's still in the hunt come the final round, will be going for this third straight green jacket and fourth overall. Then it's off to the golf mecca of Hilton Head, S.C., for The Heritage, in which Justin Leonard is the defending champion. CBS and USA Network split the coverage Thursday thru Sunday. In the LPGA, there is the Takefuji Classic, which airs live from Las Vegas Thursday thru Saturday on the Golf Channel.

Fans of the "sweet science" have several options this week as well. First and foremost is a lightweight title bout between defending WBC champion Floyd Mayweather and Victoriano Sosa, which HBO airs live from Fresno, Calif., Saturday. On Wednesday, HBO's ongoing "Legendary Nights" series recalls the classic 1990 junior welterweight title bout between Julio Cesar Chavez and Meldrick Taylor. On ESPN2's weekly "Friday Night Fights," the fighters, at this writing, were still to be determined.

For tennis, tune to ESPN on Sunday for the singles finals of the Family Circle Cup, a women's event that takes place in Charleston, S.C. Then the WTA Tour heads south to Amelia Island, Fla., for quarter and semifinal action in the Bausch & Lomb Championships Friday on ESPN and Saturday on ESPN2.

NBC offers four games for its regional Arena Football League telecast Sunday.

"NASCAR Winston Cup Virginia 500" Sunday, April 13 (Fox, 12:30 p.m. ET): In an otherwise lackluster 2002 season, Bobby Labonte managed to enjoy one shining moment. The 2000 Winston Cup champion, who had only five top-five finishes and one win in finishing 16th in points last year, used a two-tire pit strategy to hold off Matt Kenseth and win the Virginia 500. Labonte, who has started 2003 fast with one win and three top-five finishes through six races, returns to the Martinsville Speedway today to defend his title.

"The Masters" Sunday, April 13 (CBS, 2:30 p.m. ET): If Tiger Woods can win a PGA Tour event by 11 strokes while simultaneously heaving from food poisoning, as he did exactly three weeks ago at the Bay Hill Invitational, imagine the damage he can inflict when healthy and motivated. We might find out today during the final round of the Masters, which Woods is attempting to win for the third straight year. His initial win here was in 1997 by a paltry 12 shots.

"Washington Wizards at Philadelphia 76ers" Wednesday, April 16 (ESPN, 7 p.m. ET): Unless he changes his plans (when has he ever done that?), Michael Jordan may be playing the final game of his legendary career tonight. As March closed, the Washington Wizards were on the outside of the playoff race and facing a killer schedule. And Jordan wasn't coming to the rescue, either. He recently said his days of carrying a team are over, leaving it up to the "young, talented players" on the Wizards to prolong his career.

Sunday

7:45 a.m. on AMC

Movie: Romeo and Juliet

Director Franco Zeffirelli's 1968 version remains Hollywood's best version of William Shakespeare's tragedy. At the time, past film adaptations of the story had featured adult actors in the lead roles, although Shakespeare wrote them as adolescents, so teens Leonard Whiting and Olivia Hussey were a breath of fresh air as the young couple in Renaissance-era Italy whose romance is doomed by a long-standing feud between their families. Milo O'Shea also stars.

Tuesday

8:15 a.m. on HBO

Movie: Osmosis Jones

The insides of an ill man (Bill Murray) are visited in this comedic 2001 combination of animation and live action, directed by the Farrelly brothers of "There's Something About Mary" fame. With the voice of Chris Rock, Osmosis is one of the man's white blood cells, which teams with a cold tablet (voice of David Hyde Pierce) to battle their host's sickness.

Wild Discovery

"Rats Among Us" looks at the many legends surrounding one of nature's great survivors. From the trade routes of ancient China to the plague-ridden streets of Europe, rats seem to thrive when things are toughest for humans. This film goes into the sewers and behind the walls to look at the story of this indomitable rodent, the tales surrounding them, mankind's attempts to eliminate them and the role rats have played in modern science.

Sunday Best Bets

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Malcolm in the Middle

Malcolm (Frankie Muniz) resists joining his Krelboyne peers in a competition of minds in the new episode "Academic Octathlon." He's even more against the contest when the faculty adviser (guest star Chris Eigeman) encourages the team to cheat, and applies his brainpower to creating a way out of the quiz. Reese (Justin Berfield) doesn't want to take Alison (Brittany Renee Finamore) to a school dance.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Alias

Christian Slater made several recent appearances on "The West Wing," and he also turns up on this series in "A Free Agent." He plays a kidnapped scientist enlisted by Sloane (Ron Rifkin) in the ongoing quest to solve the Rambaldi mystery. As her graduate-school studies come to a close, Sydney (Jennifer Garner) debates what she wants her future to be — and whether it will involve SD-6.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

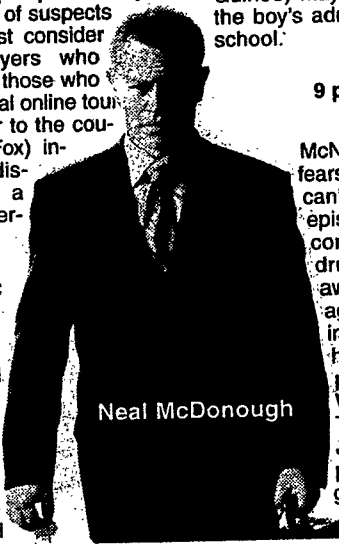

CSI: Crime Scene Investigation

The pool of suspects is wide-ranging in "Let the Seller Beware." A couple selling their home is found dead during a walk-through by prospective buyers. Among the list of suspects the CSI team must consider are potential buyers who were in the home, those who viewed it on a virtual online tour, or someone closer to the couple. Sara (Jorja Fox) investigates the dismemberment of a high-school cheerleader.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Criminal Intent

Goren and Eames (Vincent D'Onofrio, Kathryn Erbe) find a lot involved in their probe of the killings of a child services worker and a deputy mayor in "Bright Boy." The police detectives link the murders to an extremely smart youngster (guest star Liam Aiken, "Road to Perdition") whose exploitive father (guest star Tim Guinee) may have wanted to ensure the boy's admission to an esteemed school.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Boomtown

McNorris (Neal McDonough) fears he's party to a crime he can't remember in the new episode "Blackout." He loses consciousness after a drunken spree, then awakes to find his car damaged — and bloodied. The incident coincides with a hit-and-run accident being probed by Smith (Mykelti Williamson). Hechler and Turcotte (Gary Basaraba, Jason Gedrick) get a surprise when they investigate a possible kidnapping.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC The Practice

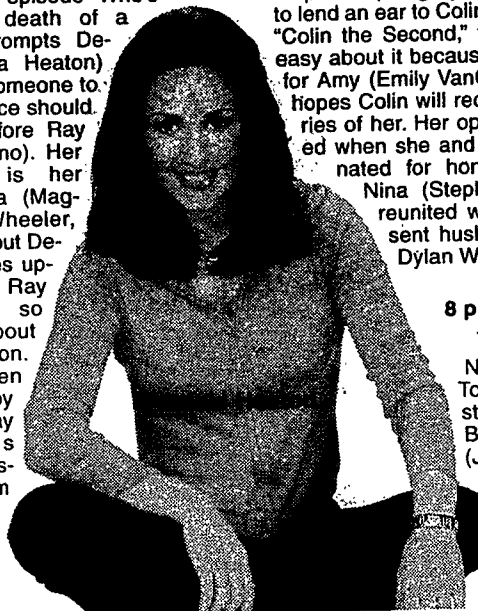

Almost without fail, Jimmy Berluti (Michael Badalucco) can be counted upon to let his emotions interfere with his court cases. Imagine how he'll fare as he defends a woman (guest star Rosanna Arquette) he admired when they were in high school together in "Character Evidence." Chyler Leigh ("girls club") makes her first appearance as Claire Wyatt, an associate in Lindsay's (Kelli Williams) law firm.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Everybody Loves Raymond

In the new episode "Who's Next," the death of a neighbor prompts Debra (Patricia Heaton) to choose someone to take her place should she die before Ray (Ray Romano). Her candidate is her friend Linda (Maggie Wheeler, "Friends"), but Debra becomes upset when Ray seems so pleased about the selection. She's even less happy when Ray suggests Linda's husband (Tom McGowan) to be his replacement.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Everwood

Ephram (Gregory Smith) continues to lend an ear to Colin (Mike Erwin) in "Colin the Second," though he's uneasy about it because of his feelings for Amy (Emily VanCamp), who still hopes Colin will recover his memories of her. Her optimism is boosted when she and Colin are nominated for homecoming titles. Nina (Stephanie Niznik) is reunited with her long-absent husband (guest star Dylan Walsh, "Congo").

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Third Watch

Noble (guest star Tom Berenger) strikes a deal with Bosco and Cruz (Jason Wiles, Tia Texada) after they arrest him for a drug purchase in the new episode "In Confidence." He promises to set up an even bigger bust by using what he knows to help them corner a high-profile pusher.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

Platinum

Two brothers (Jason George, Sticky Fingaz) establish a New York-based hip-hop record label amid fierce industry competition in the premiere of this drama series. Their venture is successful, yet each sibling has a different approach to remaining at the top. Filmmaker Sofia Coppola ("The Virgin Suicides") co-wrote the debut story, "Flow."

8 p.m. and BRAV

Art Crimes and Mysteries

The six-part miniseries concludes with "Tiffany Tomb Raiders," recalling the theft of a window — valued at more than $1 million — from a cemetery mausoleum. It was recovered by accident, since an FBI agent learned where it might be while probing an auto robbery five years later.

Angel

As the only member of the gang who's immune to Jasmine's (guest star Gina Torres) completely controlling influence, Fred (Amy Acker) can count only on herself as she flees for her life in the new episode "The Magic Bullet." She figures out how to destroy Jasmine's spell, but she may not be able to do it alone.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

Avoiding Armageddon

Many people may feel they have become instant experts on terrorism, given the events of recent times. A lot of the facts are filled in by "The New Face of Terror: Upping the Ante," Part 3 of the miniseries. The odds on the potential defeat of terrorists — likely altered by the past month's events in Iraq — are considered, as is the impact on the world's children. Former Osama bin Laden ally Essam al-Ridi is interviewed.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

The Twilight Zone

Directed by actor Tim Matheson ("The West Wing") and starring Jonathan Jackson ("Tuck Everlasting"), the new episode "Sunrise" thrusts several soon-to-graduate college students into a nightmare. They find an Aztec artifact, which causes the sun to vanish, and a human sacrifice is the only solution. The hour's second story, "Burned," casts Jason Bateman as a man haunted by the ghosts of children killed in an arson he commissioned.

8 p.m. on TNT

Movie: The Wedding Singer

Adam Sandler stars as a romantically unlucky wedding singer who can't get a break in this 1998 comedy. After his girlfriend leaves him because he's in a dead-end job, which he happens to love, his enthusiasm for his work declines. When he demonstrates kindness to a compassionate waitress (Drew Barrymore), he lures her away from her overbearing boyfriend. This is a must-see for anyone who loves, or is still stuck in, the 1980s.

8:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Wanda at Large

Wanda (Wanda Sykes) isn't one for surprise parties, but Jenny, Barris and Holly (Tammy Lauren, Robert Baily Jr., Jurnee Smollett) refuse to believe it in the new episode "Wanda's Party." Keith (Dale Godboldo) does everything he can to dissuade them from staging the bash for Wanda, but they fail to heed his warnings.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

In "Open Season," a lawyer who successfully defends an accused cop killer is shot dead. Briscoe and Green's (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) first instinct is to pin the killing on an angry member of the force. But soon, a member of a white supremacist militia becomes the prime suspect. Sam Waterston also stars.

Movie: Once Around

First teamed in "Always," Richard Dreyfuss and Holly Hunter were rematched two years later in director LaSse Hallstrom's ("The Cider House Rules") offbeat but affecting 1991 comedy-drama. Hunter plays a lonely-in-love woman who's very close to her parents (Danny Aiello, Gena Rowlands). She finds romance with the brash keynote speaker (Dreyfuss) at a self-actualization seminar, but her parents aren't accepting of him.

9:30 p.m. on USA

Movie: 8MM

A widow finds a "snuff" film among her late husband's things and hires a private detective (Nicolas Cage) to find out whether the young woman in the movie really was killed. His investigation takes him deep inside Los Angeles' seamy porn underworld, where he faces shady characters and his own demons. James Gandolfini ("The Sopranos"), Peter Stormare ("Fargo") and Joaquin Phoenix also star in this dark sex- and violence-laden 1999 drama.

11:20 p.m. on AMC

Movie: The Searchers

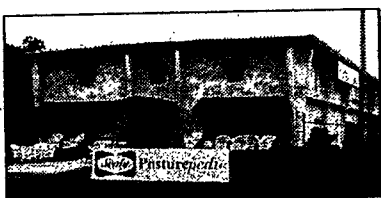

This classic 1956 Western stars John Wayne as a Civil War soldier who spends five years in search of his kidnapped niece (Natalie Wood). Directed by John Ford, this saga is thought by many to be the best Western of all time. The cast includes Jeffrey Hunter, Vera Miles, Ward Bond, John Qualen and Harry Carey Jr.

CSI: Crime Scene Investigation

It's a busy evening for Grissom (William Petersen) and his colleagues as Las Vegas again becomes the site of a big boxing match in "Fight Night." One of the fighters is killed in the ring, and the investigators try to determine whether the tragedy was accidental. At the same time, Catherine (Marg Helgenberger) probes a gang-related slaying and Nick (George Eads) looks into a jewel robbery.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Will & Grace

Leo (Harry Connick Jr.) returns from Africa sooner than expected, which Will (Eric McCormack) isn't supposed to know, in the new episode "Leo Unwrapped." Will arranges for Leo's arrival to coincide with Grace's (Debra Messing) birthday, but when she encounters Leo earlier, she tries to keep Will from finding out that she knows about the surprise. She enlists Jack and Karen (Sean Hayes, Megan Mullally) to help.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

Avoiding Armageddon

After this miniseries was completed, the coalition's military campaign in Iraq provided immediate annotations to the content. Nevertheless, the concluding episode — "Confronting Terrorism: Turning the Tide" — offers recommendations for worldwide security in an age of possible nuclear crises. The underlying premise is the potential global rippling of any nation's destabilization.

8:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Good Morning, Miami

The comedy series ends its maiden season with "One Flu Over the Cuckold's Nest," which presents Dylan (Ashley Williams) with a marriage proposal — from Gavin (Matt Letscher), who delivers it while he's on the air. She tries to decide what to do while having dinner with Jake (Mark Feuerstein), who subtly tries to sway her from accepting the proposal.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Without a Trace

A teenager (Jared Hillman) vanishes from the exclusive school he attends in "Suspect." The headmaster (Conor O'Farrell) becomes the focus of Jack's (Anthony LaPaglia) investigation, since he is rumored to have had questionable relationships with other young men. The educator seems to know how to get around the pursuit in every way, making the detectives fear they may not find the boy in time.

My Teenage Daughter

A household controversy erupts when Rory (Martin Spanjers) gets permission to go on his first date in "Rory's Gotta Girlfriend." Bridget and Kerry (Kaley Cuoco, Amy Davidson) waste no time reminding Paul (John Ritter) that they weren't allowed to date when they were age 13, as Rory is now. Dad is left standing accused of perpetuating a double standard.

Hack

Olshansky (David Morse) finds it no easier to communicate with his father (guest star Brian Smiar) as the elder man's health drastically declines in the new episode "All Others Pay Cash." Grizz (George Dzundza) falls under suspicion when money vanishes from his church, resulting in his suspension — and a probe by Olshansky. Bebe Neuwirth ("Cheers") and Lindsay Crouse ("Dragnet") reprise their earlier guest roles.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Reba

Reba (Reba McEntire) tries to get extra cash she desperately needs by selling her engagement ring on the Internet in "The Rings." When Bröck (Christopher Rich) finds out, he becomes upset and starts bidding on it — and Barbra Jean (Melissa Peterman) mistakenly thinks he wants to buy it for her.

Beltway Sniper

The series of shootings that terrorized Washington, D.C., and the surrounding area last fall is recalled in this new documentary. As the sniper — or, as it turned out, snipers — targeted victims at random, Montgomery County Police Chief Charles Moose and the FBI used the media to address the perpetrators and attempt to stop the attacks.

Movie: Rush Hour

One of the biggest surprises at the box office in 1998, this action-comedy had a record opening for a fall release. Far East adventure icon Jackie Chan and comic Chris Tucker play police detectives with different styles, posing big challenges when they're partnered to rescue the abducted daughter of a Chinese diplomat.

appears largely in flashbacks as Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) probe his background.

9 p.m. on TBS

Jason O'Mara

The District

An ex-heavyweight champ's return to Washington, D.C., for another bout is marred when he becomes a murder suspect in "Return of the King." The victim is his wife, and circumstantial evidence initially works against him. So does his hair-trigger temper, but he's released from custody. Then Temple and DeBreno (Sean Patrick Thomas, Jonathan LaPaglia) learn a possible motive. Jaclyn Smith guest stars.

The Agency

A holiday becomes memorable for the agents for atypical reasons in "Thanksgiving." They're called into action to find Stiles (Jason O'Mara), who vanishes while working against an illegal arms dealer in Kiev. He can hear his CIA peers through a transmitter in his tooth, but they're unable to find him, so he's on his own in trying to determine a way out of his predicament.

Hunter

Following two TV movie sequels, the weekly revival of the 1984-91 police series gets going in earnest. Fred Dryer and Stephanie Kramer return to the roles of Rick Hunter and Dee Dee McCall, partnered again to fight crime in their very distinctive manner. Hunter isn't known for having the gentlest touch with felons, and McCall can be tough herself — a fact that earned her the nickname "The Brass Cupcake."

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

Mark-Paul Gosselaar ("NYPD Blue") moonlights on this police drama as a guest in "Sacrifice." His character — a murdered gay man, the victim of an apparent hate crime — ap-

Movie: Crocodile Dundee II
This 1988 sequel to the Australian comedy-adventure movie "Crocodile Dundee" reverses the action by starting in New York and ending in Australia. Mick "Crocodile" Dundee (Paul Hogan) runs up against an international drug lord in this follow-up written by Hogan and his son, Brett Hogan. Linda Kozlowski, Mrs. Paul Hogan in real life, also stars.

NBA Basketball Playoffs

There will be more action this year in the NBA postseason, which begins this afternoon with a tripleheader on ESPN. Since 1984, the first round had been a best-of-five series, but at the All-Star break, the league and players' union agreed to make it a best-of-seven. So expect less upsets, since the better team usually emerges in a longer series. Sharing playoff coverage with ESPN is TNT, which airs a doubleheader tonight.

Movie: High Plains Drifter

Clint Eastwood repeated this 1973 Western's theme in 1985's "Pale Rider," but it makes for a highly effective story in either case. He plays a silent avenging angel who comes to the rescue of victimized townsfolk. Also notable in the tale, which endures as one of the star's most popular entries in this genre, is Billy Curtis as the Eastwood character's midget sidekick.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"DRUMLINE": Can a young man from Harlem find happiness as a member of a college marching band? That's the question facing the hero (Nick Cannon, of Nickelodeon TV fame) in this surprisingly engrossing drama about beating the odds. Though he's a gifted drummer, the cocky youth learns some hard lessons fast. Then he must overcome self-doubts to help his new peers succeed. Zoe Saldana ("Crossroads") and Orlando Jones ("The Replacements") also star.  (PG-13: P)

"EVELYN": In a departure from his James Bond work, Pierce Brosnan - also a producer here - stars in the affecting, fact-inspired story of an Irishman determined to regain custody of his daughter and two sons after his wife leaves him. Desmond Doyle (Brosnan) goes all the way to the Supreme Court of Ireland in a desperate bid to get the children back. Director Bruce Beresford's fine cast also includes Aidan Quinn, Julianna Margulies and Stephen Rea.  (PG: AS, P)

"THE TRANSPORTER": Delivering items from one party to another becomes much more dangerous for a former Special Forces operative (Jason Statham) in this breakneck-paced action tale that pairs Far East martial-arts techniques with American-style storytelling. his latest cargo is a bound and gagged woman - putting him at odds with his employer and the intended recipient.  (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"SPIRITED AWAY": One of the most acclaimed cartoon features of recent times, this visually stunning fantasy was directed by noted Japanese animator Hayao Miyazaki. Trying to save her parents, who have been transformed into pigs, a youngster must face terrifying obstacles in her journey through a dangerous tunnel. Among actors supplying voices for the American version are Lauren Holly, Michael Chiklis ("The Shield") and Suzanne Pléschette.  (PG: AS, V)

"HYSTERICAL BLINDNESS": First shown at the Sundance Film Festival, director Mira Nair's ("Monsoon Wedding") made-for-HBO version of Laura Cahill's play stars Uma Thurman and Juliette Lewis as Bayonne, N.J., friends circa 1987. Their relationships with men threaten their support of each other. The Thurman character also is concerned about her mother's (Gena Rowlands) new beau (Ben Gazzara). Jolie Peters plays the Lewis character's daughter.  (Not rated: AS, P)

"RABBIT-PROOF FENCE": Often linked to action and mystery tales such as "Patriot Games" and "The Bone Collector," director Phillip Noyce offers a more personal story with this true, emotional drama about his native Australia. Family-run business makes House of Versace feel like home

They are the dresses people talk about years after they have been relegated to the back of closets: Jennifer Lopez's barely there green floral gown that revealed everything but her innermost thoughts, and Elizabeth Hurley's black plunging neckline gown held together with safety pins.

Those creations are outrageous, sexy and above all, memorable, and they came from the House of Versace. It's likely that even people who dress themselves by fishing the less-rank clothes from the hamper are aware of this Italian powerhouse of design.

For those people who genuinely care if last spring's peasant blouses and turquoise beads are still in, and even for those aforementioned hamper divers, A&E Network's "Biography: House of Versace," premiering Monday, April 14, is worth watching.

Sure, it is about the rich and famous. But the appeal of this show, and the family profiled in it, reaches way beyond the minority who purchase Versace's top-of-the-line $30,000 dresses.

The most fascinating aspect of this $1 billion a year enterprise is that at its essence, this is the story of a family who worked hard and did well.

The mother, Francesca, was a dressmaker, and the father, Antonio, sold appliances. Francesca assigned her children duties, and when they met their responsibilities, they could have fun, Donatella Versace, now head of the company, says on the show.

Donatella, with her long platinum hair and wardrobe of fabulous gowns, became an international celebrity, working with her brother, Gianni, and playing in exclusive hot spots.

The design firm came about because of the charismatic and handsome Gianni, who was fatally shot in Miami Beach in 1997. During his 51 years, he managed to propel himself to the apex of the fashion world, starting from humble roots.

Born in a bedroom next to his mother's dress shop in the poor Italian port city of Reggio Calabria, Gianni always loved hanging around his mom's business. Older brother Santo was a good student and analytical, which paid off handsomely when he became his brother's business manager.

By 10, Gianni designed his first dress, a one-shoulder gown. The hookers in the neighborhood influenced some of his sense of style, as he wondered why respectable women couldn't add a bit of the streetwalkers' flair to their wardrobes.

This influence was seen in his creations, always a little more daring and sexy than most designers' fashions. The older brothers fawned over their baby sister, Donatella. When she was 12, Gianni dressed her in a black patent leather miniskirt and yellow boots and put highlights in her hair.

How much she adored her brother is nearly palpable on the show. And in an interview - conducted via e-mail because she had a throat procedure and could not talk - Donatella writes, "It was great fun growing up with my brothers. They are icons in my life. To me, family is everything."

Donatella was in Florence, Italy, studying for her degree in foreign languages, when Gianni branched out on his own. While most Italian designers were still working with staid neutrals, he used his flair for color to launch new lines. His clothes were flirty and feminine, though critics assailed some collections, notably the 1992 line heavy on leather as if it came from a bondage catalog.

Since Donatella assumed the reins, the clothes, though still glamorous and outrageous, reflect more of what a woman might choose. Gianni used to ask for her input, and that is how she became involved in the business.

"The first time Gianni asked my opinion was when I thought I could contribute," she writes. "He was a genius, and I was his sister. When he asked me to collaborate with him, it was one of the most exciting moments in my life."

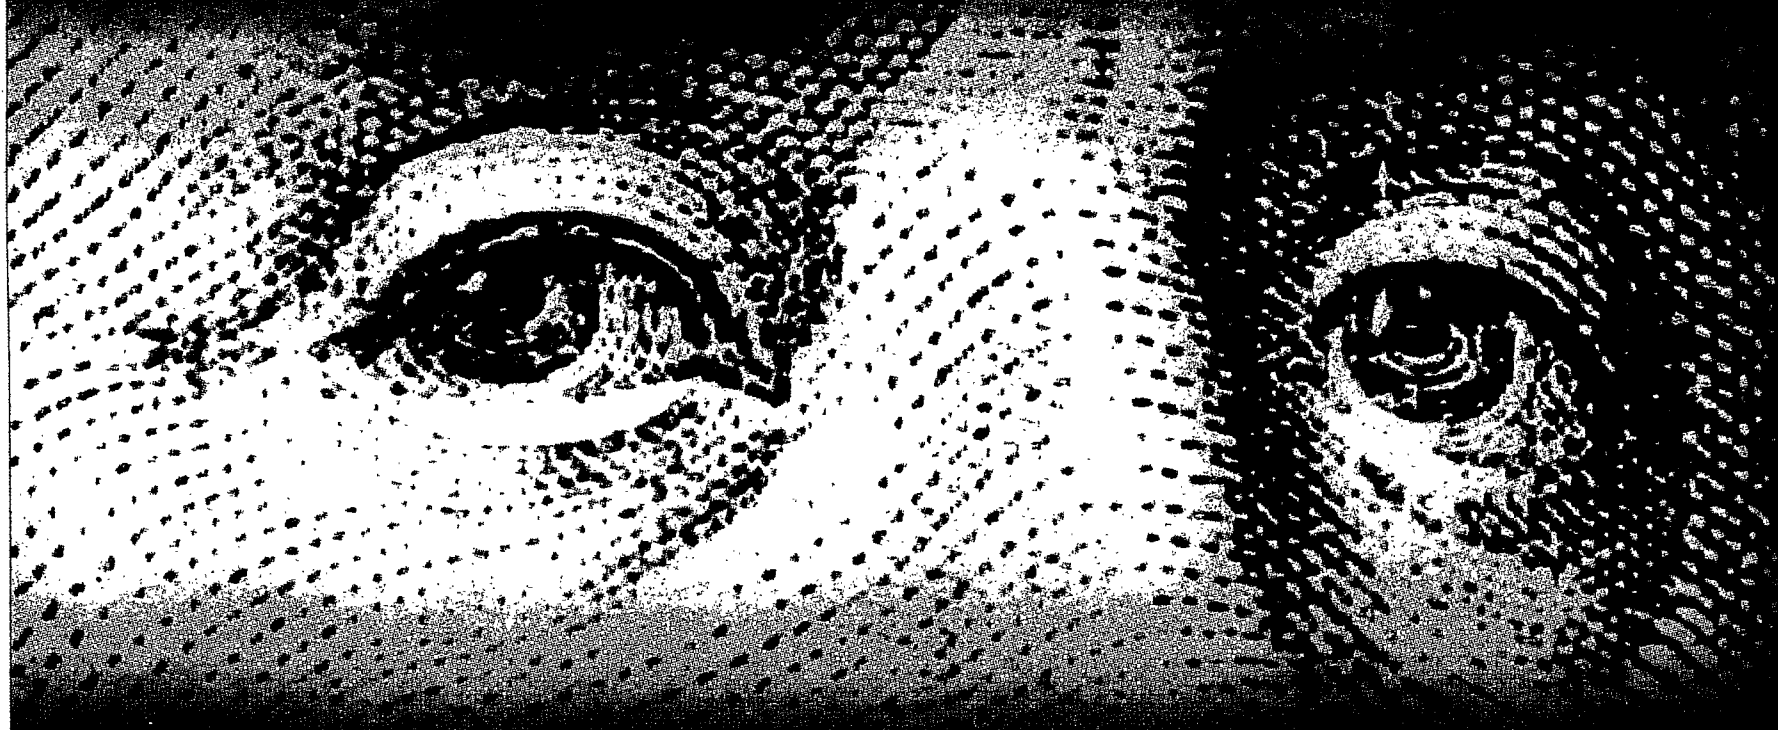

Today, Donatella draws her inspirations for her designs "from all over the world," she writes. "I am inspired by the kids on the street in New York, the cool, casual style of young Hollywood, by the world of music and the people who work with me. I draw inspiration from many sources. I constantly try to push myself to push the house to be modern while (maintaining) the traditions of the house."

That is pretty much the goal of most women: trying to be modern while maintaining tradition. Still, most women do not have the money to toss last year's wardrobe and restock the closet with this year's creations. Surely, there must be a bare minimum of what every woman should have in her wardrobe.

Actress Kate Hudson, accompanied by husband Chris Robinson, attended the 75th Academy Awards wearing a Versace dress that took 400 hours to make. "Biography: House of Versace" premieres Monday on A&E Network.
